When the liver is indolent, as it must necessarily be when it fails to secrete the bile in sufficient quantities to meet the requirements of digestion and evacuation, it should be set at work with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The healthful stimulus to activity imparted by this incomparable alterative speedily evinces itself in a departure of the uncomfortable sensations in the right side; the nausea; fur upon the tongue; indigestion, and sick headache consequent upon inactivity of the liver and the diversion of the bile from its proper channel. Irregularity of the bowels is always and painlessly reformed by the corrective indicated, which is infinitely to be preferred, both because it is safe and more efficacious to blue pill, calomel and drenching purgatives of every class. It cures and prevents fever and ague, and rheumatism.

TOPOLOBAMPO.

Pitiable Story of a Man Just Home from the Colony.

SEATTLE GOOD ENOUGH FOR HIM.

Sad Scenes of Sickness and Death—Women Crying for their Old Homes—How Big Wages are Paid by Sophistry.

SEATTLE, June 10.—Quite a number of people from this city and section were induced to join the Topolobampo colony in Mexico last fall, but numerous complaints have been made from time to time lately regarding the management of the colony. The Times says: "Hearing of the return of Mr. F. G. Cady to Seattle from the Mexican colony, and knowing that whatever Mr. Cady said about the place could be relied upon, a Times reporter started out to find him, and give to the readers of the paper an account of the experience of himself and family since they left Seattle last December. The gentleman is well known in Seattle as an energetic, fareseeing man, and this fareseeing quality which he possesses is what enabled him to foretell the consequences and brought him back to Seattle so soon.

"Do you regret that you went to the colony?" the reporter asked.

"Well, no. I would not have been contented unless I had gone and seen for myself. Now I am satisfied with Seattle, and the United States is good enough for me."

VAINLY LONGING FOR HOME.

"Have you seen letters published from Mr. Patrick, from time to time, stating that the colony was all that was claimed for it, and that all former Seattleites were contented and satisfied with their lot?"

"No, I have not seen the papers, but from what I have heard of them I must pronounce them, in the main, false. Why, it would soften the heart of the hardest criminal to see poor Mrs. Hallin walking up and down on the bare ground in a tent, lamenting her condition and praying to God to assist her to get back to Seattle. It will be remembered that Mrs. Hallin lost one of her children at the colony. The child was teething and died from exposure. When we were about to depart from Topolobampo, Mr. Hallin deemed it prudent to take his wife off some eight miles, where we got our water, so she would not be present at our leaving. He feared the scene would be more than his poor, broken-hearted wife could stand. Mr. Hallin tried to dispose of his rifle and sewing machine, to raise money to enable his wife and boy to leave at the same time, but could not. They have also written to friends at Tacoma and up the Skagit river for money. Messrs. Patrick and Erp appear to like the place, or at least pretend to. As for Mrs. Patrick and Mrs. Erp, they differ from their husbands, and curse the day they ever went to Topolobampo, and would return also if they had means by which to do so."

EXTRACTS FROM A DIARY.

Mr. Cady loaned the reporter a memorandum book, in which he had made notes, from which we copy:

"We left Seattle on the 25th day of November last, and did not arrive at our destination until December 20. Upon arrival we found no shelter, after having been assured there was ample provision for shelter for us. Thanks to a careful wife, we found some fifteen yards of sheeting, which we used as a cover over our heads at night, to protect us from heavy dew."

After performing some minor work the colonists commenced the erection of a store house one hundred feet square, one story high, with three-foot walls, and with a corridor drive-way inside. The building has cost already between $7,000 and $10,000 in credits, and is not finished yet, nor will it be finished before the rainy season starts, for want of money.

The steamer Newbern does not touch at that point now, the trade not being a sufficient inducement—there is but two and a half fathoms of water on the bar. The city site is about three miles back from the bay, on a level, sandy tract of land. The land is fertile enough, providing water were abundant, and will grow all kinds of tropical fruits. It is the intention of the colony to tap the Fuerte river, distant thirty-five miles, to bring water by means of a ditch. Some places will have to be piped to prevent the water from disappearing in the sand. To do this will necessitate a cost of at least a quarter of a million dollars. If this is done the supply will be ample. The fall is about three feet to the mile, and it will take about a year to complete the work, when it is started.

SICKNESS AND DEATH.

The first sickness that appeared was measles, from which there was one death. This was soon followed by the dread disease smallpox, which resulted in fourteen cases and four deaths. The pesthouse was established within fifty yards of Mr. Cady's tents. The first death was a young boy whose body was taken out into the bay, and a rope, with a stone attached to the end, tied around his body. Sharks devoured what was once the pride and joy of a happy household. At this barberous proceeding the Mexican authorities entered a protest, and would not allow any more such burials. The bodies of the three other unfortunates were taken across the bay and given decent burial at the foot of Mt. Joshua.

Dr. Shellhouse, one of the directors of the colony, is at the present time in California lecturing to raise funds, by the sale of $100 bonds and upwards, for building thirty-five miles of railroad to the Fuerte river, which must be completed, according to the agreement with the Mexican government, within one year from this month, in order to get title to 35,000 acres of land, which the colony will occupy.

A GREAT DELUSION.

Mr. Cady experienced great difficulty in securing accommodation to get back, having left Topolobampo on the 25th day of April, arriving at Seattle last Tuesday morning.

Mr. Cady says he thought workmen were receiving $3 per day for labor, and induced many to go there, thinking if they did not like the place they would soon have money enough to take them away, but the exorbitant rates the directors put upon the necessaries of life more than offsets the liberal allowance of wages. For instance, washing is done in the laundry and charged at the rate of $1 per dozen. Other things are charged in the same ratio. Board is 75 cents per day; children over two years of age half price.

Mr. Patrick worked steady three months, and at the end of that time came out $50 in debt to the Credit Foncier Company. During three months his family washing bill footed up over $100.

The following statements will be of interest, as showing the methods of the Credit Foncier Company when making and settling the accounts of members of the colony:

Mr. F. G. Cady, in account with Credit Foncier Company:

By 72½ days labor	$217 50

WM. L. PATTEN, Chairman.

NO COIN PAID.

The following was written upon the back of this statement, as the action of the board of directors, under date of March 21, 1887:

"That the three-dollar wages heretofore and now allowed is only fixed upon as a basis for exchange of services, not as an obligation to pay or transfer coin of the United States or Mexico on demand."

Mrs. Blanche Cady, in account with credit Foncier company:

WILLIAM L. PATTEN, Chairman.

Written on the back, as action of the board of directors, under date of March 21, 1887:

"That the three dollar wages heretofore and now allowed is only fixed upon as a basis for exchange of services, not as an obligation to pay or transfer coin of the United States or Mexico on demand."

From the above statements made by the chairman of the board of directors it will be seen that both Mr. and Mrs. Cady worked during their stay at the colony. When about to leave, Mr. Cady demanded a settlement and the balance due himself and wife for their work. The prospectus and pamphlet issued for information of intending colonists shows that workmen were allowed $3 per day, and leaves them under the impression that should they desire to leave all that would be necessary is to demand it and they would receive it. Instead of receiving their pay, as they supposed they would, their attention is called to the above note written on the back of their statements, which is convincing proof that the $3 per day clause is a fraud.

THE SEATTLE TOURNAMENT.

Portland Makes a Very Poor Record—The Banner Goes to Seattle.

SEATTLE, June 10.—The third annual tournament of the Sportsmen's Association of the Northwest began here to-day, with a large attendance from Washington and Oregon. The following events took place to-day:

Team shoot, for championship banner of the Northwest (heretofore held by Portland)—Seattle 53 out of a possible 60; Walla Walla 42, Vancouver 37, Portland 34, Tacoma 34.

Shoot for the individual championship—First prize, won by Foster, of Walla Walla, 20 out of a possible 21; second prize, divided between Debray, of Walla Walla, and McNaught, of Seattle, each making 18; third prize, Evans, of Portland, 17.

Chamberlain cartridge and Parker gun contest—First, A. W. Debray, Walla Walla, 18 out of 20; second, divided by Beach of Seattle and Evans of Portland, 16 each.

The programme for to-morrow is an interesting one, and some fine shooting is anticipated.

MURDER OR SUICIDE?

An Old Man Found Dead Near Dayton, Oregon.

LAFAYETTE, June 10.—An old man named Hadley was found dead near Dayton this morning. He had a knife in his hand when found. The man that found him thinks there was a bullet hole in his forehead, but is not sure. He does not know whether it is a case of murder or suicide, but thinks it is murder.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

McMINNVILLE, June 10.—Another murder or suicide has just been reported. Mr. Hadley, a well-to-do farmer living near Dayton, was found dead under a willow tree near the roadside on his farm to-day, with an ugly wound in his forehead. He had gone out with his little boys to attend to some chores about the farm, and sent them home on some errand, and not coming as was expected search was made, with the above result. A courier has just come in for the coroner.

STATE DISPATCHES.

THE RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS.

ALBANY, June 10.—Railroad Commissioners Slater and Bell arrived this morning from Ashland, and left on the 1 o'clock train for a tour of inspection over the Oregon Pacific. The law, the commissioners say, authorizes examination of the track and condition of the road, as well as the carrying business. This trip is for the purpose of examining several bridges reported to be not substantially built.

A SMALL FIRE.

SALEM, June 10.—To-night about 9:30 P. M. fire was discovered in a small building back of China houses on State street. An alarm was sounded, and the entire department turned out and soon extinguished the flames. The building was small and unoccupied, and is evidently another structure of small value which some incendiary has fired.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

TACOMA NOTES.

TACOMA, June 10.—A carload of cattle from the Yakima country, the first of the kind, arrived in Tacoma over the Cascade switchback to-day.

A dispatch from St. Paul says that the Northern Pacific earnings for the first week in June were $245,857, being an increase of $17,520 over the corresponding week of last year. All classes of business show an increase, the largest being in ordinary passengers.

THE ARMOUR AFFAIR.

More About the Warrant that was Held Over His Head.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—A Chicago special to the San Francisco Chronicle says: "The story of a warrant against Philip Armour came up again to-day, and it is stated that he has given bond to appear before Justice Brayton tomorrow afternoon to answer. Armour did not respond in person, nor was his bond given yesterday, but security for his appearance is duly on file in Justice Brayton's court, and thereby hangs a singular tale of judicial procedure. On June 2 last Mr. Wright, accompanied by his lawyer, John Lyle King, paid an early visit to Justice Brayton, and swore out the now celebrated warrant, charging Armour with cornering wheat contrary to the statute provided in such cases. The writ was not taken from court, but was securely locked in the safe, the whole process seeming to be governed in accordance with the desires of complainant. The latter's lawyer called on Armour's counsel and arranged a delay.

Said Wright to-day: "I did not lose a cent in the whole transaction, but acted from a conviction that the whole board of trade has been outraged. The forming of a corner is equivalent to corralling a man and taking away his money. I had evidence in this case dead to rights on Armour, and he could not have escaped."

Notwithstanding all this Wright said he would drop the prosecution, because all his friends had been put on him to drop it by Armour. He added: "You can say that I abandon the case through the personal solicitation of the Cudahys, both of whom are my fast friends."

Brokers hardly know what to think of the matter since seeing the statement by Wright, but many of them still say it is an easy way to back down, as they hold to their original belief that the whole affair was a scheme to influence the market in favor of a certain set.

THE UNION SQUARE INCIDENT.

The Truth of the Matter According to Henry George.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The entire first page of Henry George's paper, the Standard, is taken up with George's opinion of the Union square incident of Saturday night. After asserting that men who side with John McMackin did right in not yielding to the demands of O'Brien, he says: "The real truth of the matter is that evidently O'Brien did not want to identify himself or the parliamentary party with the principle of land for the people which McMackin does represent. He was willing to accept an ovation from the workingmen of New York provided it should appear to be merely a tribute to himself and to what he calls his "mission" and to the picayune land policy of the parliamentary party; but he was not willing to accept any demonstration which would have displeased the saviors of society who have clustered around him in the United States or would give any color to the assumption that the Irish cause does involve a universal principle."

DECISION AGAINST A BUCKET SHOP.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—Judge Gordon today delivered an opinion refusing the petition of John G. Sterrett for a mandamus to compel the Electric Reporting Company to replace a ticker in his bucket shop, on the ground that it is a gambling business and in contravention of good morals.

A YOUNG WIFE DEAD.

Babe in Arms, She is Shot Down By Her Husband,

WHO THEN SHOOTS HIMSELF.

An Awful Tragedy that Has Shocked the People of Polk County—The Miserable Man May Recover—A Full Account.

McMINNVILLE, June 10.—Last night about 10 o'clock Oscar Kelty shot and killed his wife, near McCoy, and then shot himself. They had been living at Albany. Mrs. Kelty left her husband, for some domestic reason, one week ago, and came to her father's, Mr. Glandon's.

Kelty came down soon after, and yesterday came from Dallas to McCoy, and went to his trunk, took out his revolver and fired it around. Then he put in new cartridges, bought a bottle of whisky and went to his wife's father's, and on finding his wife asked her if she intended to live with him again. She replied in the negative, when he drew his revolver and shot her, the ball entering at the upper part of the breast bone, coming out at the small of the back and lodging in the piano, indicating a kneeling posture. He then turned the pistol and shot himself in the left breast, the ball coming out at the back.

Her mother, on hearing the disturbance, ran into the room and found her daughter dead and Kelty lying on his side, resting on his elbow. When Mrs. Glandon entered the door, he raised his pistol to shoot her, when she retreated and gave the alarm.

When they returned, Kelty had left and gone to the barn, where he remained all night, early in the morning going to Henry Alexander's, a neighbor near by, where he was found to-day. He will probably die. He says he does not know why he shot his wife or why he shot himself, and that he lost his pistol before he got to the barn, or he would have shot himself again. He refuses to talk much and does not want a physician. He is a young man of good family and has been married about three years. They have two children, the younger about 6 months old. There is widespread sorrow over the awful tragedy.

FEARS OF MOB RULE.

LAFAYETTE, June 10.—O. M. Kelty, who shot his wife at McCoy last night and killed her instantly, and then shot himself, is not hurt so bad as thought. He will have to be watched very closely or he will be lynched. He shot her while she had her baby in her arms.

A GRAPHIC ACCOUNT.

Fuller Particulars of the Sad Tragedy, Obtained by a Visit to the Scene.

SALEM, June 10.—Last night about 9 o'clock a most sickening tragedy was enacted near McCoy, about twelve miles west of Salem, on the western division of the Oregon & California railroad. Oscar M. Kelty, son of J. D. Kelty, a well-to-do and highly respectable farmer of Polk county, shot and instantly killed his wife Clara, and then attempted his own life, under the following circumstances:

In September, 1884, Oscar M. Kelty married Clara Glandon at Amity, in Polk county, she being a daughter of F. S. Glandon, an old and highly respectable resident of Polk county, who formerly, with his family, was a resident of Salem, where they are well known. The issue of the marriage was two boys, one about 22 and the other 6 months old. The couple had apparently lived happily during that time until last Saturday, when the parents of Mrs. Kelty were surprised to see her arrive with her two children from Albany, where her husband had been in the employ of A. B. McIlwain & Co. as salesman for two or three months. She stated that he had abused her and that she would no longer live with him.

On Tuesday Kelty came down from Albany and went to the house of his father, between McCoy and Zena. He made no attempt to see his wife until the evening of the tragedy, being engaged meantime in buying wool for a San Francisco and Albany firm at Dallas and other towns of Polk county.

THE AWFUL CRIME.

While at Perrydale he found out from Harry Glandon, brother-in-law, that his wife was at her father's home, and in the evening he called at Glandon's, about 9 o'clock, the family having retired, and knocked loudly and asked to see Clara. She came to the door and invited Kelty into the parlor. She wore a loose flowing gown, and bore her babe in her arms.

After her husband entered the following conversation, overheard by a hired man who slept overhead, ensued:

"Will you live with me, Clara?"

She replied: "No, I won't."

Crying "You won't, won't you?" Kelty whipped out a revolver, and two pistols shots in quick succession followed, and a heavy body fell to the floor.

Mrs. Glandon was first to reach the parlor door, and the sight that met her eyes was one that was enough to freeze her blood with horror. Lying upon the floor, weltering in her blood, with her child clasped convulsively to her breast, lay Mrs. Kelty, murdered by her husband. Close by, on his knees, was Kelty, who had evidently directed the second shot at himself, with one hand on the floor, as if trying to rise, while the other grasped a 44-calibre revolver, which he pointed at his mother-in-law; but lacking strength to fire the weapon, his arm dropped nerveless to his side.

Mrs. Glandon fled, taking with her her 18-year-old daughter, who had meantime arrived upon the scene.

When Kline, the hired man, entered the room, Kelty had fled, and the murdered woman was yet expiring, with her arms around her babe, with her hands clasped as in the act of praying.

The ball had entered on the left side of the head, just above the ear, barely penetrating the brain, and then ranging directly downward and lodging in the left breast, just above the nipple. From the direction which it took it appeared that she had dropped upon her knees, as if in entreaty to her husband not to murder her. The hair on the child's head was burned by powder, and the bullet barely missed it. Its face also bears powder marks.

THE SEARCH FOR KELTY.

News of the murder spread rapidly, and a crowd gathered around the house, and the search for Kelty began. He was traced through the barn and dew-wet grass, and early in the morning was found at a neighbor's, Mr. Alexander, about a mile and a quarter from the scene of the murder, and within half a mile of his father's house. He was lying upon a sofa before a fire, and upon beholding his pursuers, he weakly exclaimed: "It will all be over in a few minutes, boys."

It was found that Kelty was badly wounded, the bullet having entered the left breast, near the nipple, and lodged just under the shoulder blade. His wound is a bad one, but he will probably recover. A physician afterwards probed for the bullet but could not locate it.

Kelty was weak and nerveless, and when asked why he committed the murder he could only respond: "I do not know." He is 23 years of age, and was born at the present home of his father. His deceased wife was 22 years old.

Effort has been made to find the pistol, but so far the search has been fruitless. The murderer purchased his cartridges at Perrydale, and in the morning at McCoy called upon Railroad Agent Graves and asked to be allowed to enter the depot where his trunk was. From the trunk he took the pistol, loaded it and fired one chamber from the depot platform to see if it was loaded properly. This was about 8 o'clock. Then he went and committed the fearful deed.

Coroner Kirkpatrick was called and held an inquest, and the verdict of the jury was in accordance with the foregoing facts.

A Statesman reporter who visited the scene of the murder, and from whom the above recital of events is obtained, found the country wild with excitement. People sympathize almost entirely with the woman, and nothing but Kelty's respectable connections and hitherto good reputation save his neck. A guard has been placed over him at his home, where his wants are being attended to.

CHINESE GAMBLERS AS MISSIONARIES.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Forty-five Chinese gamblers, arraigned before Justice Smith of the Tombs yesterday, endeavored to excuse themselves by alleging that they were missionaries trying to convert their countrymen. The subterfuge was too thin, and they were compelled to pay the usual fine.

The Proposed Extension of the Oregon Pacific.

A REMEDY FOR PHYLLOXERA.

THE OREGON PACIFIC.

A Talk with Hoag about the Proposed Extension.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Manager Hoag, of the Oregon Pacific, being spoken to with reference to a dispatch from New York, that a syndicate of capitalists have subscribed for unissued 6 per cent. bonds of the Oregon Pacific road, states that he is in receipt of a private dispatch confirming the item. He says this is not unexpected to him, as he has known that negotiations were pending looking to this end. He thinks if the people in Oregon have ever entertained doubts that the road would not be extended across Eastern Oregon into Idaho and to Boise City, those doubts will certainly be removed. As for himself, although the road has passed through several financial straits, he has never had a doubt that it would be extended eastward and eventually be part at least of a grand trunk line. The men who have subscribed for the stock are wealthy, the wealth of two or three being about eighteen or twenty millions. As all the money necessary for completing the road is now available, work on the different sections of the road will be most vigorously pushed. Mr. Hoag may leave for Oregon to-morrow by the overland route.

PHYLLOXERA.

A Californian Insists that Mercury is the True Remedy.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Dr. J. T. Bauer, formerly treasurer of this city, now a resident of Napa, renews his claim for the efficacy of the mercurial remedy for vineyards infested with phylloxera. He writes to Chief Viticultural Officer Wheeler as follows:

"I planted here 100 Zinfandel cuttings, in the very worst infected spot of the vineyard, and when phylloxera had destroyed every vine, I put half an ounce of mercury, finely divided, in every hole around cuttings that I took off the dying Zinfandel vines, which all died the following year. To-day I looked at these 100 Zinfandel vines. Some of them died, like other cuttings will do, even when taken from healthy vines, but at least eighty per cent. are doing well, and are full of bunches of grapes. They look very healthy. Every other European and even resident vines, such as Taylor and Lenoir, partially died. For myself I have not the least interest in either the success or failure of mercury. I have neither a patent nor a (quicksilver) mine, and am out of business altogether."

Dr. Bauer's remedy received general attention several years ago, and was experimented with extensively by the viticultural commission in several Sonoma vineyards. The immediate results were not those claimed by the inventor, not sufficiently favorable to warrant further investigation. The particular experiment referred to by Dr. Bauer, that of planting with quicksilver, was not tried. The vineyard will be examined and tests carried on for a long time, to give the remedy a fair trial.

CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO NOTES.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10. The Canadian Pacific has perfected arrangements whereby passengers over that line can check baggage through from this city to its destination without rechecking.

A large number of Chinamen left on the overland train yesterday for Boston and Chicago, and the poll tax collectors at the ferry landing had their hands full.

The Fourth of July committee have decided to celebrate the national holiday by a regatta, a base ball match, pyrotechnic displays, music and literary exercises. There will be no parade.

The new bank block in Alameda, projected by Capt. R. R. Thompson, is in abeyance. Mr. Thomson figured it to cost $35,000, but the contractor's figures exceeded that by some $12,000, and now he does not know whether he will build or not.

One of the results of the speculative mania was seen in the suicide of a well-to-do man in Los Angeles, who took poison because he had sold his land at too low a figure.

RETURN OF A SECRET SERVICE MAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—U. S. secret service detective Finnegass has returned here after a few weeks' absence in Oregon and Washington. He states that he visited most of the important cities and towns in Oregon and Washington territory on his tour of inspection. He also states that he did not find a well executed counterfeit piece of coin of recent make during his trip, nor did he discover or hear of a counterfeit national note. He did, however, find counterfeit standard dollars in Southern Oregon. The man who made them was found, arrested, and is now serving a five years' term in prison at Salem, he having pleaded guilty of manufacturing spurious money. The light weight of the false coin and a defect in the die used in the manufacture of the same, led to its discovery. But few of such pieces are known to be in circulation. These facts are only incidental to the detective's mission through the northern portion of the Pacific coast, the secret of which he carefully guards.

ITALIANS AS WINE CONSUMERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Italians of this city and state have the reputation of consuming more wine per capita than any equal number of any other nationality. Their number in this city is estimated at 10,000, and throughout the whole state at 38,000. In discussing the subject at the Italian merchants' exchange, a reporter was informed that the Italians of California consumed 1,560,000 gallons per year, and they manufactured nearly the entire quantity. The Italians of this city alone drink 2000 gallons per day, or at the rate of 730,000 gallons per year. A majority of the families have their own "pressors," or hand press, and make wine at home, according to primitive methods in the rural districts of the old country. The Italian population scarcely ever touch a glass of water. They occasionally use coffee, but very seldom tea.

LOST TEN THOUSAND AT POKER.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Sometime since one McKill secured judgment for about $70 against Walter Neustadt, on an assignee claim, but he has been unable to collect the money on account of Neustadt's avowed poverty. A short time since he went upon the bond of Simon Hamburg, alleging that he was possessor of property valued at $10,000. Yesterday Neustadt appeared before Judge Stafford on an order of examination. He was asked if he had not gone upon Hamburg's bond. He admitted that he had.

"Do you own this property?"

"No."

"How is that?"

"I sold it."

"And what did you do with the money?"

"Lost it playing poker with Hamburg, another gentleman and my wife."

CHINESE FISH DESTROYERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—At a meeting of the state board of fish commissioners, to-day, J. W. Wilbage, chief of patrol, reported that he had made a recent visit to Monterey bay, and that catching, in fact destruction of small fish—in plain violation of the law is appalling. More than 170 Chinamen are camped there, and are using nets as small as can be made. A minnow an inch in length could not squeeze through the netted obstruction. They fish with hooks and with lines two miles in length, baited and hooked with protruding, sharply finished wire, in the line of fish travel, to catch everything coming in and going out of the bay. Forty boats are seining with small nets, and dragging patrol lines. There is a Chinese colony ashore, drying fish as a commercial product for shipment to Asia.

SHOT FOR REVENGE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Yesterday a boy named Anderson had a charge of buckshot fired into his face and body by another boy named McAvan. Anderson was only superficially wounded, the shot having lodged beneath the skin, from whence the greater portion of it was extracted. He stated that he and a number of other boys had been teasing the juvenile weapon wielder, and the latter declared his intention to have revenge. When next they met, McAvan drew an antiquated-looking pistol and fired at complainant.

A BIG INCORPORATION.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Articles of incorporation have been filed by the California Fruit and Wine Land Company. The capital stock is $1,328,000, divided into 13,280 shares at $100 per share, half of which has already been subscribed. The company has purchased 6000 acres of land in Fresno county, situated in the fruit and raisin district, between two irrigating canals, and will cultivate it and raise fruits and wine.

MOVEMENTS OF RAILROAD MEN.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—The directors' car of the Union Pacific railroad was sent to the end of the line of the California & Oregon road to-day to meet Second Vice President Callaway, of the Union Pacific road, at that point.

Superintendent Fillmore, of the Southern Pacific, has invited Vice President Potter, of the Union Pacific road, to come down from Portland by way of the Oregon & California roads, and has offered to send a special car to meet him at the end of the road. He has not yet received any reply from Mr. Potter.

Col. C. F. Crocker and Chief Engineer Hood, of the Southern Pacific Company, left Cole's station at the end of the C. & O. road this morning, and will arrive here to-morrow.

CHINESE FISHERMEN ARRESTED.

VALLEJO, June 10.—Late Thursday the fish commissioners' sloop Mischief swooped down upon two Chinese fishing junks near the southern end of Mare island. There were nine Chinamen in the two junks, and they were watching a fixed line that stretched down the bay for a distance of five miles and was hung with barbarous-looking hooks of all kinds. The line was gotten up and was found to contain many fish, hooked in all conceivable shapes. The two junks, with the nine Chinamen and a ton and a half of sturgeon and line, were brought to Vallejo and the heathens were jailed.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Thomas Griffin, agent for Mr. Law, part owner of the schooner Laura, which was recently seized, says he does not know the cause of the seizure. On the way from this port to Prince Edward's island the Laura captured 113 seals, and Mr. Griffin thinks the vessel may have been seized on suspicion that the seals were taken in forbidden waters.

GOVERNMENT CROP REPORTS.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The June returns to the department of agriculture indicate a reduction of nearly 2 per cent. in the area of winter wheat. The spring wheat area has been enlarged 6 per cent. Most of the increase is in Dakota, which reports an advance of 24 per cent. The total area of wheat is about 7,000,000, being 84.90. The condition of spring wheat is good in Dakota and in the territories westward, but below the average records in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska. The general average is 87.3. The central belt westward from Pennsylvania and Virginia has suffered local damage from the Hessian fly, and the chinch bug has wrought injury in the states of Missouri and Kansas. There is an apparent enlargement of the barley acreage of 3 per cent. The increase is in Dakota, California, Oregon and the territories. The condition averages 87. The increase is 4 per cent.

A POWERFUL EXPLOSIVE.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Lieutenant J. W. Grayden, retired navy officer, has been making some experiments in quarries near the city with his new explosive, intended to supplant dynamite for blasting purposes. So far his experiments have met with some remarkable results, and quarrymen say the compound develops power three or four times greater than dynamite, and actual experiments made here within the past few weeks, in the presence of army officers and quarrymen, seem to bear out and support his claim for having discovered a most powerful explosive.

CUTTING DOWN THE FORCE.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—A number of dismissals will be made in the quartermaster-general's office of the war department, beginning the next fiscal year, in accordance with the provisions of the legislative appropriation bill passed at the last session of congress. These dismissals, Secretary Endicott has decided, shall be determined by an examination conducted under the new civil service rules governing promotions in the executive departments. The examination, it is expected, will take place some time next week.

ENTITLED TO NO MORE LANDS.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Land Commissioner Sparks has advised the attorneys for a purchaser of lands in Nebraska from the Burlington and Missouri River Railway Company, that no more patents can be issued to said company for lands north of the line of road in that state, for the reason that the Company has already received patents under former administrations of the land office for 200,000 acres more than it is entitled to. The commissioner some time since recommended suit to recover this excess.

CRIMINAL CALENDAR.

CHINESE SLAVE-DEALERS ARRESTED.

It is alleged that the girls were bought in China and were held here as prisoners by Poi and Kop, who intended to hold them until they had reached a marriageable age, when they would sell them to the highest bidder. The girls were committed to the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and the men held for trial on a charge of kidnapping.

CHICAGO, June 10.—A Times, Emporia, Kan., special of June 9 says: D. H. Yarborough was sentenced to-day for the murder of a son of Robert Laird Collier. The judge said: "I cannot lighten nor add to your punishment. I am merely the mouthpiece of the law. I therefore sentence you to one year's hard labor in the penitentiary, after which time the governor shall issue a warrant authorizing the warden to take you to some place within the walls of the penitentiary and hang you by the neck until you are dead."

INDICTMENTS QUASHED.

CHEYENNE, June 10.—The two indictments found against parties for fencing public land within a railroad grant limit were to-day quashed by the United States judge, on the ground that they were insufficient, and the facts in the cases did not warrant the indictments.

A New Phase of the Liquor Question in Maine.

IMPORTED "GOODS" SOLD OPENLY

The President Returns to Washington—Proceedings of the Typographical Union—The Medical Men at Chicago—Etc.

MAINE PROHIBITIONISTS ALARMED

Imported Liquors Sold Openly, under Protection of United States Law.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 10.—The prohibitory law of Maine has just received a terrific setback in this vicinity. People are everywhere discussing the new phase put on the liquor question by the recent action of Michael Burne, a well-known liquor dealer of this city, who has brought to Augusta from Liverpool a large invoice of foreign distilled spirits, which he is selling to all who wish to purchase. He closed his shop in March last and departed for Liverpool, where he entered into negotiations with one of the largest importing houses in that city for an unlimited supply of all kinds of distilled spirits. The United States laws protect all persons importing liquor from foreign countries from prosecution under any state prohibitory law for selling such goods in the original unbroken packages, and dealers have landed in this city an advance lot of Irish whisky and Jamaica rum.

The liquor came through the Portland custom house, and arrived here by freight train. When the goods reached the depot they were loaded upon a cart and hauled through the streets, the police looking upon the operation with wildly staring eyes. It was an unusual thing to witness the transportation of liquor through town in broad daylight, and of course the sight attracted great attention.

The store is now stocked with goods, and they are shown in the windows before the admiring gaze of all opponents of the prohibitory law. The selling price of the goods has been made so low as to be within the reach of the purchasing public, and sales have already been very large.

The officers are surprised at the affair, and every lawyer in town has been engaged in looking up the law bearing upon the sale of imported liquors in original packages.

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS.

THE TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 10.—In the typographical union convention, the first business this morning was the report of the committee on female cheap labor, recommending organization of women and equal pay for equal work, which was adopted. The committee on constitution and by-laws reported unfavorably on abolishing the office of chief organizer, and favorably that the time of holding the next meeting be fixed as the second Monday in June, and also that the salary of secretary and treasurer be changed from $1200 to $1000. The report was agreed to.

The same committee also reported favorably on reducing the salary of chief organizer from $1500 to $1200, and his expenses account from $1600 to $800. Also that the salary of the president be reduced from $900 to $600 and expenses from $400 to $200. All the recommendations were adopted.

The committee on nine hours reported a resolution that nine hours constitute a day's work after October 1 next in all offices except of daily newspapers. Referred.

The committee on plates recommended that subordinate unions have power to act; that the international Typographical Union executive officers endeavor to arrange with manufacturers of plates not to furnish such matter to non-union papers; that an executive board of five be appointed to have charge of the matter; that subordinate unions take immediate action to suppress plates now prepared in unfair offices; and that union printers who are sanctioned by the executive committee in striking against plates be supported by the strike fund. After a lengthy discussion a motion to discountenance the use of plates was voted down. The report was adopted, except the third clause.

In the afternoon session the new officers were sworn and immediately afterwards the convention went into secret session, which lasted half an hour.

The committee on non-union offices made a secret report.

The committee on general laws reported on the nine hour law as follows: "Nine hours shall constitute a day's work except on daily papers, and in these subordinate unions are required to change their scale of prices; that at least six hours of continuous composition, piece work, shall constitute a day's work. This applies only to unions having more than sixty members. Unions with fewer members may have the same advantages, if so desired. Unions must give sixty days' notice to employers affected. This law to take effect November 1."

The charter of pressmen's union No. 9, of New York, was revoked.

THE MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

CHICAGO, June 10.—At the closing session of the National Medical Association to-day members were selected to read papers at the next meeting on general medica, general surgery, etc.

Surgeon-General Hamilton, of the marine service, offered a resolution, which was adopted, that congress be requested to publish for distribution to the profession, copies of the report to be published by Dr. Steinburg on researches into the cause of yellow fever in Mexico and Brazil.

The chairmen of several sections read their addresses. In that section on medical jurisprudence the increase of insanity in the United States was compared with the decrease in some European countries, and the conclusion drawn that insane persons and those of feeble minds were shipped here from Europe. Drunkenness was touched on in its aspect as a disease, and it was held that the state should not license depots for dissemination of physical contamination which may become hereditary.

Adjourned to meet at Cincinnati the second Tuesday in May, 1888.

THE INDIAN COUNCIL.

EUFAULA, Ind. Terr., June 10.—Yesterday the International Indian Council concluded its sessions after selecting Fort Gibson as the place for the next meeting. A resolution was unanimously adopted in the matter of railway improvements in the territory, calling the attention of congress to the treaty of 1866, whereby but two railroads were to be allowed to be constructed through the territory. The resolution protested against such legislation as appropriates Indian lands for the use of private corporations whose employes are amenable to no local laws. The council entreats the government to respect its own guarantee to protect the Indian people. They request congress to pass an enabling act, whereby all questions affecting the rights of Indians under treaty stipulations shall be referred to courts of the United States and receive judicial settlement.

DEATH IN IMPORTED STOCKINGS.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The death of Daniel Badger at his home in Bronxville last Tuesday is thought to have been due to poison from a black and gold striped stocking which he purchased in Paris. He returned from Europe in May, in vigorous health. A few days ago he called on Dr. A. M. Campbell, of Mt. Vernon, to prescribe for inflammation of his feet. He grew worse, and an acute attack of Bright's disease set in, resulting in his death. Dr. Janeway, of this city, who was in attendance during the latter part of his illness, thought the primary cause of the disease was from poison in the dye of the striped hose he wore.

WESTERN UNION OFFICE BURNED.

PITTSBURG, June 10.—The main office of the Western Union Telegraph Co. in this city was partly destroyed by fire this morning. All communication with the outside world by the company's wires was entirely cut off, and all their fine machinery was destroyed.

The telephone wires shared the same fate as those of the Western Union, and the telephone company will not be in condition to do business for at least ten days. The Western Union company immediately transferred its business to the Mutual Union wires and is gradually getting into working condition. Only two upper floors of the building, which belong to the First National bank, and is one of the finest in the city, were burned. The direct loss will not fall under $100,000, while the indirect loss will aggregate a much larger amount.

THE IRISH IMMIGRANTS.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Counsel for the Inman Steamship Company applied to-day to the United States district court for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of seventy Irish immigrants, whose return to Ireland on the City of Chester to-morrow has been ordered by the immigrant commissioners. Arguments will be heard Tuesday.

Two thousand seven hundred and ten immigrants were landed at Castle Garden to-day. The new rule to hold all children under 16 years of age, unaccompanied by proper guardians, went into effect this morning. Several boys were found to be alone and they were held for investigation.

THE BOSSES DECLINE TO ARBITRATE.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The attempt of the bricklayers' union to arbitrate differences with the employers has failed. The bosses this afternoon declined to arbitrate, and the end of the lockout is apparently as far away as ever. The action of the master masons, it is thought, will cause the carpenters to adhere to their nine-hour plan, and the result will be that thousands of idle men will be added to those already out of work. The builders' central council has adopted resolutions recommending to all subordinate unions the establishment of a uniform work day.

THE GREAT CATHEDRAL FUND.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The Episcopal cathedral fund now amounts to over $450,000. D. Willis James has given $100,000, John Jacob Astor another $100,000, Cornelius Vanderbilt, a trustee himself, $100,000, and Henry Marquand a smaller amount originally, but it is understood that he has promised to raise to $100,000. Also two or three smaller gifts have been received, amounting to about $50,000. There are promises, though not yet definite, in the shape of several hundred thousand dollars more.

A DEPENDENT PENSION BILL.

MADISON, June 10.—Adjutant Gray, of the Grand Army of the Republic, is busily engaged in issuing to all posts in the country an important document in the nature of a dependent pension bill, whose passage will be urged on the next congress. It was drafted by the national pension committee of the Grand Army of the Republic appointed by Commander in Chief Fairchild, under a resolution of the national encampment.

A BIG BREAK IN COFFEE.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The coffee market suffered a bad break to-day, and at times the feeling was semi-panicky. Extreme losses are from 125 to 135 points, or nearly 1¼ cents per pound. This decline is the largest ever recorded in one day's trading. The weakening influences are general selling, mainly by foreign houses, and a break in Havre of 2¼ a 2½ francs. Speculative dealings here will reach upward of 200,000 bags.

THE ANNAPOLIS GRADUATES.

ANNAPOLIS, June 10.—The graduates of the naval academy were given their diplomas to-day by Secretary Whitney. President Gilman of John Hopkins University made the address. This evening Secretary Whitney presented each of the forty-four graduates with his diploma, commencing with Cadet Stockton, the honor man.

STRIKE AT ST. PAUL.

ST. PAUL, June 10.—Three hundred and fifty union bricklayers quit work to-day as an expression of sympathy with the striking carpenters. The bricklayers make no demand for themselves. A general mass meeting of all the building trades will be held to-morrow night, when the question of a general strike of all building trade workers will be considered.

MACHINERY CONSTRUCTORS.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 10.—The first annual convention of machinery constructors adjourned this afternoon to meet in Chicago the first Monday in June, in 1888. A resolution was passed pledging the new national assembly to support and vote for any labor ticket nominated in the future.

THE MIND-READER'S ILLNESS.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Washington Irving Bishop, the mind-reader, who was stricken down in a fit last evening, remained very weak to-day. His mother and sister were in attendance at his bedside this afternoon, and to-night he was feeling considerable better.

A SUICIDE IDENTIFIED.

CHICAGO, June 10.—The man who committed suicide in San Francisco, three days ago, under the name of Victor Moore, turns out to be Frank E. C. Montford, who had charge of the printing office at army headquarters in this city. He leaves a wife and two children.

CROPS IN KANSAS.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 10.—The state board of agriculture reports the wheat area to be 20 per cent. less than last year; the condition 40 per cent. less than the average; the corn acreage 25 per cent. in excess of any former period; condition never better.

TO MAKE RUSSIAN IRON.

NEW YORK, June 10.—A Pittsburg dispatch says: Initial steps were taken yesterday for the construction of a Russian iron mill thirty miles north of the city. This will be the first Russian iron mill ever built outside of Siberia.

YELLOW FEVER UNDER CONTROL.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Acting Surgeon-General Stone to-day expressed an opinion that the yellow fever at Key West is well under control, and there is not much danger of it spreading beyond the present limits.

AUSTRIA.

ANTI-SEMITIC RIOTS.

VIENNA, June 10.—A strong anti-Semitic movement is rising in Hungary. There has been a fight in this connection at Neutra, in which eight persons were killed, and thirty wounded.

DYKES REPAIRED.

VIENNA, June 10.—The Szegedin dykes have been repaired and are now out of danger. Mako, however, is still threatened.

GOING TO ENGLAND.

VIENNA, June 10.—The Empress of Austria starts for England July 2. She will stay for a month in Norfolk.

HUNGARY.

THE DYKES STILL STAND.

VIENNA, June 10.—A hurricane and rain shower occurred to-day near Mako, and several workmen were washed away. The dykes still withstand the pressure of the flood.

"I say, pa, what is a monopoly?" inquired a young hopeful. "A monopoly, my son, is a sort of a scheme whereby a man has all there is and nobody else has anything." "Then you are the biggest monopolist in these parts. You took the last piece of pie there was on the table."

THE APACHE RAID.

Opinion of an Army Officer at Washington.

A HOT CHASE BY THE TROOPS.

Night Saves a Band of Eighteen from Capture—A Belief that the Hostiles Have Doubled on Their Trail.

THE INDIAN OUTBREAK.

Opinion of an Army Officer—The Geronimo Campaign.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—An army officer, in speaking of the recent Indian outbreak in Arizona, says: "These renegades have heretofore been peaceable and quiet. They were among the first Indians located there by Gen. Crook, and have been there since 1872. They belong to the 5000 Apaches still remaining in that country. The Apaches which were removed to Florida belonged to the Chiricahua band, which was always regarded as the most dangerous of all tribes. The present renegades were doubtless not restrained from going on the warpath by the example of Geronimo and his companions. The Indians are smart, and have as much human nature as any people living. They are apt to leave their reservations for the purpose of enjoying themselves in the most approved Indian style. They are now pillaging and murdering, which probably had great attractions for them. When they remembered that Geronimo and his followers were punished by being sent east to occupy very comfortable quarters, having their every want supplied and their children educated, such punishment did not look frightful to them. Thirty Indians don't look like a very big band, and yet that is all Geronimo had with him when he kept the whole country in constant fear and trembling for a year and a half. This outbreak may not prove so disastrous, however, and they may be captured in a short time. However, they are liable to cause as much trouble as the Chiricahuas."

RUMORS OF AN ENGAGEMENT.

NOGALES, A. T., June 10.—Indications continue to strengthen the belief that the first report stating that only one band of Indians is on the warpath is a mistake, as bands have been seen in widely different sections of the country on the same day. A telegram from San Carlos, stating that there are hostiles in the Santa Catalina mountains has been received. In the Santa Barbara and Patagonia mountains, near this place, immense fires are raging which were no doubt started by Indians for the purpose of covering up their tracks.

Yesterday afternoon a report came in to the effect that Lieut. McNutt and his men had a running fight with hostiles, and later a courier came into the soldiers' camp and reported that the troops ran onto a party of Indians, and at the time of his leaving were chasing the Indians over the hills. It seems evident that the intention of the hostiles is to reach the Sierra Madras. The country is full of soldiers, and it is almost impossible to see how the raid can last long.

OPINION OF OLD SETTLERS.

TUCSON, A. T., June 10.—Private dispatches received here indicate that the Indians have doubled on their tracks. Old settlers hold that the savages are trying to get back to the reservation, as they find the country more thickly settled than they had calculated on. The Indians are hardy and brave, and when it is called to mind how long Geronimo and his little band kept the whole country in fear and trembling, it is not surprising that people in the region likely to be crossed by these hostiles grow frightened when news comes of their approach. One peculiarity about these Indians is that, when closely pursued, they scatter like quails, hiding behind rocks and bushes, rendering capture almost impossible. The scattering, however, seems to be based on some definite plan of meeting again, as so far they have invariably met after separation. It is not necessary to carry food with them. They subsist on cactus, getting both food and water from it, and suffer pangs of hunger and thirst which no white man can endure.

ON THE TRAIL.

BENSON, A. T., June 10.—Last night at dark Lieut. Johnson and Capt. Lawton were pursuing a party of eighteen Indians towards the Rincon mountains. Johnson was only half an hour behind the reds, with fair prospects of coming up with them if they kept their course, but the Indians, with their usual sagacity, changed their course soon after dark, and headed right across for the Catalina mountains, throwing the soldiers off the track. At daylight this morning Johnson took up the trail. This afternoon another fresh trail, which would indicate that there were about thirteen Indians in the party, was discovered going across the railroad track five miles west of Benson, and pointing toward the Rincon mountains. This corroborates the statement that there are about thirty Apaches on the war path, as eighteen were seen near Pantano yesterday. Nothing has been heard from Johnson to-day. When closely pursued these Indians will travel seventy miles per day, and they know every trail and spring in the country, so it can be seen how difficult it is for troops unacquainted with the country to pursue them successfully. Great curiosity exists to know who is the leader of the renegades. They appear to have perfect knowledge of the country, and are supposed to be led by some of Crook's scouts.

THE INDIAN QUESTION.

Success of the Severalty System on the Crow Reservation.

HELENA, Mont., June 10.—Advices from the Crow Indian agency, Montana, say that nowhere have better results been realized from the policy of the government in the allotment of land in severalty, and providing for the mental and physical training of the Indians, than among the Crows of Southern Montana. Every head of a family among them has been allotted a valuable tract of land: excellent cabins have been erected for them: the land fenced and broken, and tools, wagons, etc., provided for their use. In addition to this, several mission schools have been established among them, where the younger members of the tribe are taught the English branches, and subjected to an elementary industrial training. Their warlike chiefs, with their entire following, have taken most kindly to their new life, and the progress so far achieved has been remarkable.

Last fall, shortly after the visit of the Sioux chief Gall to the Custer battleground, Sitting Bull, with one hundred warriors, was allowed to leave the Pine Ridge agency and hold a war dance at the Custer monument. After this the Crows seemed to be unsettled, and it is still feared that the delegation of these Indians that left the agency without permission of the Indian agent, has another meaning than that of friendship.

Miss Faithfull on Woman's Work.

Manchester Guardian.

Miss Emily Faithfull gives some sound advice on the subject of the employment of women. The subject is one on which the flow of talk is indeed continuous, but neither sound nor helpful. Miss Faithfull goes straight to the root of the matter. Three points, she observes, should be insisted upon: (1) the need of definite training for girls; (2) the best work at fair market prices must be given; (3) senseless social prejudices must be abandoned. The first condition is the most important; if that is secured the rest will follow. An employment for which a regular training has been undergone is generally respected; witness the change in the status of women teachers since higher education became possible. A trained worker, and she only, can offer the kind of work which commands the market price; the work of the untrained is only paid for as a charity, and the figure is sure to be low. But as Miss Faithfull justly complains, "unhappily most ladies begin to work when they require money to live on, and youth and hope have fled." It is then too late for training, and employment is often to be gained only after humiliating entreaties, while payment is given grudgingly on account of the inefficiency of the work done or the unbusinesslike habits of the worker. Now, businesslike habits and the power of regular steady work are only to be gained by training, and if women's work is to rise above the dilettante standard they must follow the only possible road to success by due and careful preparation. All are compelled to hear from time to time dismal stories of women of gentle birth and nature reduced to poverty and helpless to extricate themselves from its miseries. The unavoidable conclusion is that parents would do well to prevent the possibility of such misfortunes by encouraging their daughters to qualify themselves while young for following some trade or profession. Then, as Miss Faithfull remarks, we must cast aside social prejudices. The teaching profession is said to be overcrowded. Commercial life may offer a better chance, and if the fear of losing social position were boldly disregarded women would find that they had the choice of a variety of more or less lucrative employments.

A Party on the Anxious Seat.

Washington Dispatch Baltimore American (Rep.).

There is nothing to-day in the whole field of politics that is giving the democrats such deep concern as the first session of the fiftieth congress. Look at it in any light they may, whether convened in extra session on the 1st of October, or whether it is decided to wait for the regular session on the first Monday in December—it is alone, and inspires them with the same dread.

THE IRISH TROUBLES.

Smith Opens the Debate in the House of Commons.

GLADSTONE AND PARNELL REPLY.

The Government Swings the Cloture Club with Great Vigor—Desperate Fight between Tenants and Constables—Etc.

LONDON, June 10.—In the commons this evening Smith moved the resolution previously announced, requesting that at 10 P. M. on the 17th inst. the chairman forthwith put the question on any motion amendment then under discussion, then on the clause itself, and finally on each remaining clause. He urged that this step was forced on the government by continued obstruction. It was absolutely necessary for the dignity and efficiency of the government that the attempt to prevent progress of business be defeated. Now four months of the session has expired and practically nothing had been done. The whole course of legislation had been stopped. The government demanded that due consideration be given the rights of the minority and respect shown for the traditions of liberty and freedom attached to the customs of the country [derisive Parnellite ejaculations], but it was undoubtedly the duty of the government, in circumstances without parallel in the history of parliament, to call upon the house to take measures to prevent the minority from setting at defiance the controlling power of the majority. It was impossible for a government representing the majority to yield to the obstructions of the minority. The government might be displaced by an adverse vote, and then be bound to appeal to the country; but while they were sustained by a majority of the house they must carry on the business of the country. The debates over the crimes bill had become a travesty, bringing ridicule, contempt and disgrace upon parliament. He appealed to the house to support the government in trying to restore order in the proceedings. [Cheers.]

A SPEECH BY GLADSTONE.

Gladstone said longer notice should have been given of this important motion. The present state of business and entire paralysis of parliament caused intense dissatisfaction throughout the country, but this had been brought about by the government themselves. ["Hear! hear!"] They had been pursuing a false and futile policy, coercion without justification. As he had pleaded on former occasions, they had disregarded all usages and traditions of parliament in the conduct of a measure which they had introduced under the name of the crimes bill—a measure directed against a combination apart from crime. [Hear! hear!] He would suggest to the government that a rational mode to expedite the bill would be to make it temporary instead of permanent, and to strike out all provisions touching combinations apart from crime, assuring Irish tenants of some protection and respect, and dealing with land strikers the same as with labor strikers. [Cheers.] If the government rejected that remedy, and had not another to propose, the offensive character of the bill would be retained in full force. He did not wish to create difficulty by offering opposition, which he knew to be ineffectual. He therefore contented himself with protesting against the course now proposed.

REMARKS BY PARNELL.

Parnell said he could not understand the fatuity of the government in rushing blindfolded along a road which they had already seen would lead to the greatest disorder in Ireland. The government speakers had harped on the theme of "obstruction." As a matter of fact, the Irish members had not lifted one voice against any measure except the coercion bill, which they were bound to resist to the utmost. He concluded by moving, as an amendment, that the house decline to sanction action limiting freedom of debate and assailing the rights of the minority.

Harcourt warned the government that their proposal might be used by a future government as a precedent for carrying a home rule bill in a fortnight, and that other measures might be forced through in the same way.

Goschen, chancellor of the exchequer, said parliament and the country had enough of this unlimited discussion. It was necessary now to put an end to it.

Several Parnellites continued the discussion.

Smith moved cloture. Carried; 284 to 167.

Parnell's amendment was rejected, 301 to 181. There is a chance now of discussing the original motion.

After further discussion, Smith's complete motion carried under cloture, 245 to 93, amidst cheers and counter-cheers. Smith then proposed to postpone further discussion of the bill in committee till Monday.

"A DISGRACE TO THE HOUSE."

Healy asked that the discussion be proceeded with Saturday, but Smith declined. Conybear, supporting Healy, was commenting on the humorous talent of Smith when the latter appealed to the chair. The chair said: "I must say that the whole tone of this debate has been a disgrace to the house." Conybear was about to continue when Smith moved cloture—carried, 172 to 70. [Cries of "shame," "disgraceful," etc.]

The motion to postpone discussion in committee until Monday carried—203 to 72.

Smith moved to adjourn. Healy objected. There, and a voice, "He will have his holiday," greeted the final application of cloture, carrying the motion to adjourn by 203 to 71.

A MONSTROUS ENCROACHMENT.

LONDON, June 10.—The Pall Mall Gazette in an article on the action of Hon. W. H. Smith, government leader, in giving notice that he would to-day move that the committee name the time when they would report the Irish crimes amendment bill to the house, urges every English and Irish member of parliament who opposes Smith's proposal, from Mr. Gladstone downwards, to get themselves suspended rather than to tamely acquiesce in Smith's monstrous encroachment on the liberties of parliament.

THANKS FOR HARTINGTON.

LONDON, June 10.—Profs. Seeley, Sedgwick, and Clark, and other liberal unionist members of the senate of Cambridge university, have signed an address to Marquis Hartington, expressing their admiration for the inestimable public services of himself and other eminent liberals in opposing Gladstone.

GLADSTONE'S INTENTIONS.

LONDON, June 10.—It is rumored that Gladstone intends, after the crimes bill passes the third reading, to raise the whole question of the government's Irish policy.

FIGHTING FOR THEIR HOMES.

A Desperate Struggle Between Tenants and Constables.

DUBLIN, June 10.—Evictions at Bodyke were resumed to-day, and there was a repetition of the exciting scenes which have attended numerous attempts to evict tenants. The sheriff and his body guard were stubbornly resisted at the house of a man named O'Hallorn. The hillside near the house was covered with an excited mob, who cheered the defenders of the premises and urged them to hold out. O'Hallorn and his party had dug a trench around the house and barricaded the lower rooms, while the upper portion of the house was occupied by ten men, including two who had returned from America, and some women.

The bailiffs made an attack on the wall of the house with crowbars, but were received with scalding water and lime. The inspector of police, with drawn sword, then mounted a ladder placed against the side of the house, but was beaten down.

A constable with a rifle and fixed bayonet next mounted the ladder, but his head was battered by the defenders. Several gashes were inflicted upon him, and he retired. Another constable then attempted to climb the ladder but failed.

A second ladder was then produced, and several constables mounted it, but were beaten down. Cox essayed to climb up the ladder to speak to the inmates of the house, but the police prevented him from doing so.

Finally a constable entered with a rifle and fixed bayonet, but the rifle was wrested from him and his safety was imperilled, when Father Hannon entered and commanded a cessation of hostilities. The inmates were then arrested and the work of eviction carried out.

ENGLAND.

ASCOT HEATH RACES.

LONDON, June 10.—This was the last day of the Ascot heath race meeting. The race for the Hardwicke stakes, two thousand guineas, was won by Ormonde, Minting second, Bendigo third. There were four starters.

The other starters, H. Fenwick's three-year-old colt, Phil Minting, took the lead at the start, with Ormonde a close second. Further on Minting had a clear lead, Bendigo third. The latter, when five furlongs from home, dropped back to last again. All were in closer order entering the straight, but Phil succumbed directly, and the others drew nearer Minting. The three closed before reaching the distance, and an intensely exciting struggle took place. Bendigo gave way at half the distance. Minting struggled gamily, but was unable to shake Ormonde, who won amid deafening cheers by a neck, Bendigo three lengths behind Minting. Time, 2:44 2-5.

There were seven starters for the Alexandria plate, about three miles. J. Hammond's five-year-old horse Eurasian won, Lord Hartington's five-year-old horse Sir Kenneth second, Wyner's five-year-old mare Stone Clina third. Other starters were the Duke of Beaufort's four-year-old colt The Cob, Leopold De Rothschild's aged horse Middlethorpe, J. McKenzie's aged mare Wavelet, and Wyner's five-year-old mare Alb. Eurasian won by two lengths, only a head between second and third; time, 5:25 3-5.

LONDON NOTES.

LONDON, June 10.—The government bill which will be an appendix to the coercion bill, providing for the trial of persons charged with grave offenses by common judges, will be immediately introduced in parliament and pushed through at the same time as the coercion bill.

Earl Beauchamp, paymaster-general, has resigned. Brownlow has been appointed to succeed him.

The Indian budget amounts to £1,000,000. The army consists of 17,000 Europeans and 14,700 natives.

A FAMINE IMMINENT.

LONDON, June 10.—A famine is imminent in the city of Meshed, and through the whole province of Khorassan. The Russians are trying to prevent the people from emigrating to the trans-Caspian territories.

VINEYARDS DESTROYED BY FROST.

LONDON, June 10.—Frosts have destroyed the vineyards and orchards at Chanzy, in Algeria.

CANADA.

TO ENLARGE THE CABINET.

OTTAWA, June 10.—Bills for reorganization of the government departments and creation of new portfolios of trade and commerce, solicitor-general, comptroller of customs and comptroller of inland revenue were discussed in the commons this afternoon. The opposition strongly opposed them, on the ground that these departments were being created solely to put in office political favorites. Also if the United States could get along with seven members of its cabinet there was no necessity for Canada to have fifteen.

Mr. Armyat introduced a bill, making it a misdemeanor for more than three persons to assemble in the vicinity of any dock or vessel for purposes of violence or intimidation. Necessity for the bill was occasioned by the existing troubles at Quebec, where an organization of ship laborers controls all labor on the docks, driving shipping away from the port.

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10.—There was a lively debate in the senate on the Chinese immigration bill, many members objecting to it. Mr. Almon, of Halifax, said it was disgraceful that such a law should exist on the Dominion statute book. He held that it was against the feelings of humanity and contrary to the law of God. Mr. Halbach said the Chinese had done more to develop British Columbia than the whites.

CARPENTERS' WILL STRIKE.

TORONTO, June 10.—At a mass meeting to-night of carpenters belonging to the American Brotherhood Amalgamated Society and Knights of Labor, it was decided to strike to-morrow, because employers refused to grant increased wages. Between 600 and 700 men will strike. It will paralyze the whole building trade. A prolonged strike will probably ensue.

ANOTHER REBELLION FEARED.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 10.—Senator Girard, who represents St. Boniface, Manitoba, received a letter from a friend in the Northwest to-night, stating that Louis Schmidt, who was prominent in the Riel rising of 1870, is fanning the discontent still existing among the half-breeds, and unless some prompt measures are taken to pacify them trouble is feared.

GERMANY.

IN THE REICHSTAG.

BERLIN, June 10.—The reichstag to-day discussed the bill providing for the selection of burgomasters in Alsace-Lorraine, outside of commercial councils. Government Commissary Pachs said the bill was not intended as a penalty for the result of the recent elections; that it merely restored a regulation which had been existent prior to the annexation of the province.

Minister Von Puttkammer said the bill was in no sense coercive, and it would restrain outside influences which were disquieting Alsace-Lorraine.

Herr Windthorst led the reichstag members opposing the bill. The house decided on a second reading of the bill in plenary sitting, without reference to committee.

Fresh troops have been ordered from Cabul to replace the Herat garrison, which is suspected of being in sympathy with the governor of Penjdeh.

The Russians have advanced ten thousand troops to within six Bokharan firstangs of Herat, and occupied Karak, which is four firstangs distant from Herat.

THE EGYPTIAN CONVENTION.

LONDON, June 10.—In the house of lords the Marquis of Salisbury presented the Egyptian convention. England is to evacuate Egypt in three years. The convention will not be valid unless approved by the powers.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 10.—The sultan demands further modification of the Egyptian convention before it is ratified. Sir Henry Drummond Wolff refused to accede to the Sultan's demand, and has referred the matter to the home government.

The inhabitants of the town are panic stricken and have fled for safety to the open country.

PORTLAND, SATURDAY, JUNE 11, 1887.

PORTLAND'S TRADE ORGANIZATION.

Those who propose to make commercial cities at Yaquina bay, Tacoma and Siuslaw, not to mention twenty other ambitious localities, seem to think that a line of railroad is the one essential, and, that secured, that commercial greatness will follow as a matter of course. There is, if we may judge from the tone of those who speak for these aspiring towns, small regard for Portland's established status as the business headquarters of the country. There seems to be no understanding of the extent and value of Portland's trade organization, no appreciation of the fact that such an organization cannot be created suddenly upon any mud bank which may choose to set itself up in pretentious rivalry with Portland. There seems to be no appreciation of the further fact that in a trade organization, founded on the solid basis of accumulated wealth, in the hands of men of experience and business ability, closely connected with the tributary country by the ties of acquaintance and credit, there is prodigious strength.

It is not the way of THE OREGONIAN to boast of the importance and wealth of Portland, but since certain newspapers have affected to hold Portland's established position in contempt, we may be excused for giving some definite information concerning these matters. The capitalization of the trade of Portland is reported by the mercantile agency of R. G. Dun & Co. to be $48,226,000. This does not include business houses employing less than $10,000 capital; nor does it include the banks, the transportation companies, the insurance companies, private capitalists or the city of East Portland. The banking capital alone amounts to $6,793,000. There are twenty-one firms with a responsibility of over $1,000,000 each. In this capitalization, every branch of jobbing business is represented, for the most part by houses long established and firmly rooted. These houses know the country well. They know what the country requires and what it can afford to buy. They have also sufficient capital to buy on the best possible terms.

Such, not to mention advantages of situation, is Portland's bulwark against the rivalry of such pretentious places as Tacoma. A trade organization like this does not spring up of a sudden in a new place. It is a growth which, if it would be stable and wholesome, must be slow. It cannot be called into existence by a railroad manifesto nor by the methods of a townsite ring.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

The Boston Herald states that during one of the series of war lectures given in that city a year or more ago one of "a party of school girls from sixteen to eighteen years old was overheard asking a lady who sat near them, as the lecturer alluded to one of the noted campaigns: 'Mrs. ——, please tell us who was Gen. Banks, and which side was he on?' The questioner and her party were evidently from some of the best Boston families, and as intelligent as the average school girl. It did not occur to the lecturer to say that Gen. Banks was from Massachusetts." The Herald adds that any one of these school girls could have told all about Gates or Greene; the capture of Ticonderoga, or the surrender of Cornwallis.

Now, who was to blame for this ignorance? We answer, the ridiculous school system which sends a girl away from school knowing all about the war of the revolution and little or nothing about the war for the Union. If this be true of Boston and its schools, it is probably true of a good many other places in the country, and it is simply disgraceful that in any town of 5000 inhabitants a person to-day of 16 to 18 years old should have left school without knowing as much about the war of 1861-65 as about the war of the revolution. Of course such knowledge, if obtained at our schools, does not do away with the necessity for such lectures as those of Mr. Fiske; but no school child of 16 in America ought to go to his lectures so utterly ignorant of the outlines of events, the names of opposing commanders in great campaigns as this girl described by the Boston Herald. The fact that the Herald believes this girl to have fairly represented the average intelligence of Boston schoolgirls is a severe indictment of our present system of popular education which makes so much of non-essentials to the neglect of the essentials of good education. Let us thank God that so good a schoolmaster as Mr. Fiske is abroad in the land, but still it is a disgrace to our system of public education that the average Boston schoolgirl should, as the Herald states, leave school without knowing whether Gen. Banks was a Union or Confederate commander, or that he had been governor of Massachusetts. There always will be room for such lectures as those of Mr. Fiske, because exceptional power of elucidation of historical events in full detail, married to exceptional talent for philosophical reflection, cannot be expected in school histories; but ignorance on part of a school graduate of the outline of events; of the names and identity of the actors, whether for or against the Union, is inexcusable, and fairly indicts the worth of our school system, which is so occupied with stuffing children with the very shavings and sawdust of cheap learning that the essentials are grossly neglected even in Boston.

RIGHT OF WAY WANTED.

The route of the proposed railroad to connect Farmington with the Coeur d'Alene mining district lies across the Coeur d'Alene Indian reservation. Engineers report that it is not possible to avoid the reservation except by a roundabout course, which would extend the mileage of the road, increase its cost and add to the charges of its operation. In short, the only practicable route is across the reservation, and this has been adopted. The surveys and working plans are complete, and if the right of way were secured the work of construction could and would begin in a week. There ought to be no trouble about the right of way. The Indians, we are told, make no objection, but would be glad to have the railroad come. But in this case it does not rest with the Indians to give the right of way. The Coeur d'Alene reservation was set apart, as such, by an executive order, not by treaty, and belongs, therefore to the general government, and not to the Indians who hold it as free tenants. In short, it is simply part of the public domain, for the present reserved from general settlement. Actual authority over this tract rests of course with congress, but the president, if he chooses, can grant right of way by executive order, subject of course to ratification by congress. There are many precedents for such action by former presidents, illustrated, indeed, by the situation of the reservation itself at this time. It would be a natural and proper thing for President Cleveland to grant right of way for a railroad at this time by executive order just as it was a natural and proper thing for President Grant to set the land apart for the Indians by executive order. The interests are important and urgent, and delay until congress meets to secure right of way will postpone an important public enterprise for a full year and involve many persons in considerable loss. We cannot but think that if the matter were fairly and fully represented to the president, he would allow the work to go on. Nothing short of stupidity or stubbornness could interfere to delay the waiting development of a great country.

There are multitudes who yield a kind of assent to prohibition, and yet who don't practice prohibition, and never will practice it. There are large numbers who will vote for a prohibition law as an amiable concession to their neighbors, and because they think it won't amount to anything anyhow. Should the law carry they wouldn't think of obeying it, or of being bound by it, but would buy and drink the same as before. Among a large class there is no honesty whatever in dealing with this subject. Hence the vote that prohibition gets is no test whatever of prohibition sentiment. In the ranks of the voters who make the majorities for prohibition in the prohibition states, are no small numbers of the tipplers whose demand keeps up the supply whose existence is attested by the tax laws of the United States. In Main, for example, three-fourths or more of the vote goes for prohibition, and no such number of liquor sellers as the tax returns of the United States reveal could possibly flourish there, if large numbers who profess to be prohibitionists were not among their customers. It is no uncommon thing to hear a man say in Oregon: "O, well, I think I'll vote for prohibition. It may abate some of the evils of intemperance, and I guess I can get all the liquor I want."

LOOK AT THE RECORD.

Prohibition does not go backward.
Vermont, Maine, Kansas, Iowa, Rhode Island, Georgia are in line of steady, onward movement. They will not retreat. G. H. Atkinson

This is a very beautiful proclamation of faith, but what is the record as to the backward movement of prohibition? Massachusetts tried prohibition, backed by a state constabulary for years; it proved a failure, and in 1868 Massachusetts substituted license and local option. Was that a forward or a backward movement for prohibition? Vermont has had prohibition on the books since 1854. The governor in his annual message, and the senate in a unanimous report in 1886, urged the substitution of the "local option" law of Massachusetts. Vermont newspapers of the 4th instant announce that in Burlington and Rutland no convictions can be had in case of second offenses, the penalty for which is the penitentiary: that liquor selling is in full blast in all the large towns, the hotels, and the drug stores being the leading saloons. Is this a forward or backward movement for prohibition? Michigan had prohibition up to 1874; she now has license. Was this change a forward or backward movement for prohibition? The Providence Journal says that the prohibitory law of Rhode Island has now been in nominal operation for ten months, and the result is a total failure in every part of the state save Newport. The Journal says in summarizing the situation:

> The smaller country towns, where intemperance and liquor-selling have never been common, of course, remain in the same excellent condition as before. These, therefore, may be left entirely out of the question, as they prove nothing whatever as to the efficacy of prohibition as compared with license. For the rest, the same deplorable conditions which were noted three months ago are still found, though often greatly intensified by continued non-enforcement. Especially in Providence and Warwick, but in varying degrees also in the other larger communities, the law is being violated with increasing impunity. Saloons, club rooms and "kitchen rum shops" are much more numerous than they were three months ago, and they are selling more boldly and openly every day.

The law is treated by the most respectable druggists in Rhode Island with contempt. There is no concealment about their sales, and no druggist in Providence has been prosecuted. The correspondent of the New York Sun says that "the legal machinery of the state and of the municipalities, active and efficient in dealing with recognized crimes, is affected with paralysis when prohibition is touched."

The chief effect of the Sunday closing in New York city was to send all the thirsty to Hoboken and Williamsburg. The New York Evening Post publishes the number of arrests for drunkenness and for drunken and disorderly conduct for the three Sundays of May 1876, when the law was a dead letter, and for the first three Sundays of May, 1887, when it was more strictly enforced than for many years before. The remarkable feature of this showing is that there is scarcely any difference between the totals for the three Sundays under the two policies. The aggregate is almost identical—195 in the 1886 Sundays and 200 in those of 1887.

In Switzerland the temperance question was recently settled by popular vote on the federal law giving the government the sole right to manufacture and sell spirituous liquors. The law was approved by a vote of 252,791 to 127,474. The Swiss people believe that this is the best way effectively to diminish the quantity of liquor consumed and secure the purity of that sold. The Swiss do not agree with the premise of the prohibitionist, that liquor-dealing and murder are exactly the same thing; but they believe, to quote the New York Evening Post, "as nearly all rational men believe in this country, that even if moderate consumption of alcoholic drinks be a physiological mistake, it is not in itself an offense against the community, and that it is the excessive consumption which society has to complain of, and is bound to repress, until the individual man has learned that his wisest course is to abstain wholly."

High license is now in successful operation in Illinois, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Missouri, Minnesota and Nebraska. The Scott liquor law prevails in Ohio, while New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Delaware have only failed to secure high license by the alliance of the liquor dealers with those enthusiastic prohibitionists who "take no steps backward." In the state of Texas, on the 4th of July next, an act goes into operation which forbids the use of a screen or any other device to obstruct the view into a saloon, and prohibits pool tables or any other tables used for games of chance in such places. Sales are forbidden to minors, students and habitual drunkards, and to any person whose wife, mother, daughter or sister gives notice to the dealer through the sheriff or other peace officer not to sell to such person. A bond of $5000 that he will strictly comply with the law must be furnished by every dealer.

Of the argument against license or the tax policy, ex-U. S. Senator Windom, of Minnesota, a life long advocate of temperance, recently said:

> There is one class of citizens who insist that taxation implies the reciprocal duty of protection, or that restriction by license is a direct complicity and participation on the part of the government and the people in the wickedness of liquor selling, or that local option is but another name for license. With all due respect to our friends who take that view I am unable to agree with them. Now, suppose in a community that has 3000 saloons I vote for a license that taxes the dealers so heavily that 1500 are taken out of existence. Now, is not that restriction by license which drives out one-half, though it leaves the other half doing that which they would have done without it?

SHERMAN SURPRISED AT SHILOH.

The article of Capt. Andreas, of Illinois, on the battle of Shiloh, published in our issue of the 11th inst., is an interesting paper, but we do not find anything really new in it, save the statement that Gen. Halleck sent a telegram to Buell, which, if he had received, would have taken him fifty miles from the battlefield. Halleck sent a telegram to Grant during the Vicksburg campaign directing him to join Banks at Port Hudson, which fortunately Grant did not receive until it was too late to obey it. Capt. Andreas, as it seems to us, does what Gen. Buell had already done in the Century, viz., he convicts Sherman of lack of full preparation to fight a great battle. Prentiss certainly was not surprised, and in one sense Sherman was not, for Prentiss's division resisted long enough to permit the rest of the troops to get under arms; but in the sense that Sherman had not disposed his lines as he would or at least ought to have done had he expected to fight a great battle: in this sense Sherman was surprised. For this surprise Grant was no more responsible than Sheridan was when, in his absence, Early routed the army under Wright at Cedar Creek. Grant was necessarily absent, having been called by a telegram from Gen. Buell to meet him at Savannah, and Buell in his review of Shiloh criticises Sherman rather than Grant as responsible for the surprise and consequent disastrous issue of the first day's battle.

Sherman was authorized by Grant "to assign arriving regiments to brigades and divisions as he might think best, and designate the camping grounds." Buell says that Sherman, who posted and had charge of the extreme front line, neglected all proper means to make his forces secure, and was responsible for the surprise of the army by the Confederates. The enemy on Saturday arrived and formed in order of battle within two miles of Sherman's lines and burst like a blizzard on them at daylight. Buell justly holds Sherman responsible for the disaster of the first day, since the negligence or recklessness of his dispositions in his position of advanced guard offered the enemy his opportunity. Sherman has always denied being surprised, and Grant in his "Memoirs" accepts Sherman's denial and treats his version of the events of the first hour of battle, which he did not himself see, as authentic; but while Sherman was not surprised in the sense that Wright was at Cedar Creek, where some of our men were caught in their beds, nevertheless he was caught unprepared to fight a great battle. He had utterly failed to read aright the signs of coming attack on his front; he did nothing within three miles of his line to beat up the enemy; if he had he would have found the enemy on Saturday and been entrenched by daybreak on Sunday.

Grant is in his "Memoirs" evidently disposed to treat Sherman with great tenderness and generosity in this matter of the surprise at Shiloh, but there is no doubt that Sherman, charged with the responsibility of posting and caring for the extreme front line at Shiloh, was surprised in the sense of having allowed a great army of over 50,000 men to get within two miles of him without detection, and his denial is only a quibble. He was not surprised in the sense of not having his men under arms; they were not caught in their tents, or at supper, as Howard's men were at Chancellorsville; but in the important sense that he was caught utterly unprepared to fight a great battle, or in other words that he was completely outgeneraled, there can be no question, and Buell does but simple justice when he places on Sherman, to whom this great trust had been committed by Grant in his necessary absence, the burden of responsibility for this great disaster.

Capt. Andreas makes it clear that Grant was justified in his statement that the Confederate attack had spent itself before Buell arrived; that if Buell had not arrived, the enemy were too much exhausted to make another assault with any hope of success, but without Buell's arrival Grant could not have taken the offensive Monday morning. While we believe that to Sherman and not to Grant is to be charged the responsibility for the surprise of Sunday morning, nevertheless it should be remembered that while Sherman graduated from West Point three years before Grant, he had never before seen a battle, for he did not serve in Mexico; nor had he ever seen service in Indian warfare. He had not learned caution and skill by experience and disaster; he commanded an army flushed with the unbroken success that had attended it from Donelson to the day of the battle, and he naturally did not dream that the broken and dispirited army of Sidney Johnston could be so largely reinforced and rapidly reorganized by Beauregard as to make possible its assumption of the offensive. Sherman was surprised at Shiloh and quickly driven back, because his lines were faulty in arrangement, and in extenuation it can only be said that he was the raw commander of the front of a green army that had grown careless and over-confident from unbroken success. It was Sherman's first surprise and his last, until Joe Johnston surprised him at Bentonville, N. C., in March, 1865. Capt. Andreas makes it plain that if Lew Wallace, who, with 7000 men, was only six miles distant and had been ordered at 8 P. M., by Grant, to the front, had not taken the wrong road and marched to and fro uselessly all day until dark, the enemy would have been beaten by 3 P. M. Had Wallace taken the road pointed out by Grant, his 7000 fresh soldiers, all of whom had seen service, would have struck the enemy at their weakest point by noon, at least.

Mr. John Fiske, in his lecture on the battle of Chattanooga, explains Bragg's detachment of Longstreet from his army and his movement against Knoxville on the ground that Bragg thought that Sherman could not arrive with transportation for Grant's artillery, etc., before Longstreet smashed Burnside and got back again. But this is no adequate explanation, for, as Grant points out, the fate of Knoxville turned on the issue of the battle at Chattanooga. If Bragg won the battle Burnside was at his mercy, and to risk the loss of the battle at Chattanooga in order to pick an apple before the battle that was sure to drop into his lap if he won it was military imbecility. The fearful blunder of Rosecrans, which forced him to fight a great battle against superior numbers, in ground of Bragg's choosing, was well set forth by Mr. Fiske, but it suggests the natural inquiry how was it that Lee, after Gettysburg's great repulse, could detach Longstreet with 15,000 men from his army right under the nose of Meade without observation followed by instant attack. Lee knew that Meade, by the middle of August, had sent 12,000 of his best troops to New York city to enforce the draft, so before the return of these troops Lee did not hesitate to weaken himself by Longstreet's corps sent to Bragg. Meade never struck him, but when Rosecrans was defeated then Meade was ordered to send the Eleventh and Twelfth corps, some 12,000, to Tennessee. By this time his 12,000 veterans sent to New York city had returned; but Lee did not recall Longstreet, who remained in East Tennessee all winter, and yet Meade never struck a blow. Suppose when Sherman was before Atlanta and Grant before Petersburg that either commander had been so mole-eyed or so spiritless that Lee could have sent men to Johnston or Johnston to Lee without exciting any attention or attack, what would have become of their great campaigns?

Wm. E. Chandler, chosen United States senator to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Pike, of New Hampshire, is easily the ablest republican of his state. He was the leader of the Blaine forces at Chicago in 1880 but his superior administrative talents persuaded President Arthur to call him into his cabinet as secretary of the navy. He made the best secretary the department has known since the war. Chandler is a fine consulting lawyer, a man of extraordinary nerve, an unrelenting stalwart republican, a very astute political manager, but a perfectly honest man, who can neither be bribed nor terrorized. His disposition to fight opposing politicians sometimes with their own tools has given a false impression of Mr. Chandler to those who do not know him. The Boston Herald, an independent paper, opposed generally to Mr. Chandler in politics, says of the new senator:

> It was once said of him, after he has got well on in his career in Washington: "There is one who has had his disappointments, but he has the proud satisfaction of knowing that he is a perfectly honest man."

Chandler will greatly strengthen New England in the senate; he is a keen, energetic, resolute man; the equal in intellect of any man from New England in the senate save Edmunds. New Hampshire has done well. Her other senator, Blair, is a sort of bubble and squeak moral demagogue, utterly unworthy of his position.

Yesterday a soap manufacturer of Chicago, visiting this city, remarked that it was singular enough that this country was not making its own supplies of soap, instead of importing them. Tallow here, he said, is a drug in the market at 3½ cents, and perhaps could be bought for less. Manufacturers at Chicago pay 5½ cents and ship the goods here. Were the business handled so as to control this market it would undoubtedly, as this gentleman thinks, become highly profitable. One hundred thousand dollars, he said, would be capital enough. Here is a line in which the materials of manufacture are in our hands. Labor is as cheap as in Chicago, materials are far cheaper, we have protection against the Eastern market in distance and cost of transport, and the market here is large and increasing. Somebody will yet seize this opportunity and make a fortune.

A dispatch printed on another page bears witness to the good effects of the "severalty" policy on the Crow Indian reservation in Montana. The experiment is yet new, too new to show results which may be considered permanent, but the fact that the policy begins well is interesting and worth attention. In the case of the Umatilla and Cayuse tribes we shall soon have a closer view of this policy. Its success will mean a great deal for Oregon, Washington and Idaho, where large Indian reserves are now a positive curse to the country, causing some of the fairest districts to remain unsettled and unproductive and delaying general development in many ways.

The crown prince of Germany is believed to have a very serious throat disease, and will probably not long survive it if it should prove to be, as is feared, a cancer. The prince is in his 56th year, and his eldest son, who is in his 29th year, would be the next heir to the crown, on the death of the aged Emperor William. With Bismarck past 70 and in poor health; with Moltke in the retirement of extreme old age, the empire of Germany might be somewhat shaken in its tranquillity if the Emperor William, Bismarck, Moltke and the crown prince should all be taken away by death within the year, leaving a young man of 28 heir to the great imperial trust they have borne so long and upheld with so much vigor and prudence. In England, too, Parnell is reported as not long for the World, while Gladstone is said to be rapidly aging. Death in all these cases might make strange changes in the chess-board of German and English politics. The czar, too, is likely to be murdered at any moment.

Our new naval vessels are small in comparison with the largest of the British navy. Two new armored ships recently launched in England are the heaviest ever constructed, their displacement being 11,270 and 11,470 tons respectively. Their engines are intended to work up 12,000 horse power, and they are to carry 110-ton breech loading rifle guns. Great as will be the power of these monster vessels, their speed will not be so great as that of many smaller ones. They will cost over $4,000,000 each.

It now seems to be settled that the statement that President Cleveland would come West was unauthorized. It is to be regretted that he will not take means to disabuse his mind of the idea that Buffalo is the Western frontier of the republic.

Tommy, walking with his father, saw him give a beggar 5 cents and inquired into the matter: "What did you give that man 5 cents for, papa?" asked Tommy. "So that he might eat bread, my boy," said the father. That evening, at the supper table, it was observed that Tommy declined to eat bread in any shape. "Aren't you eating bread nowadays, my boy?" his mother asked. "No, mamma." "Why not?" "So papa'll give me 5 cents."—Youth's Companion.

Drinking Less Whisky.
Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Government statisticians find that since 1840 the use of whisky has fallen of one-half in the United States, while the use of wines has increased about 40 per cent. The consumption of beer has increased from 1.36 gallons per capita in 1840 to 11.01 gallons per capita in 1886.

This may be considered a favorable showing, as there is choice even of evils. Were those addicted to the drinking habit to abstain entirely from the use of whisky and confine their libations to the wine cup or the beer mug, drunkenness would be less frequent than it now is.

It is asserted that the police records of large cities show that the number of arrests for drunkenness has decreased quite steadily since 1840.

Democratic Gibes
Chicago Herald.

After recent painful experience the republicans are likely to be hard to suit in the matter of presidential candidates. At the close of John Sherman's speech in Springfield the members of the legislature expressed their preferences as follows: Blaine 46, Sherman 19. Now if Blaine would make a speech there the result of the ballot would probably be: Sherman 65, Blaine 2, or something of that sort. The early boom is likely to fall on the citizen.

BELMONT PARK ON Mount Tabor. THE RESIDENTS laugh at MALARIA. No case has ever been known to originate on that most healthful of buttes. Hundreds have been cured by temporary residence there. It is not the MALARIA inhaled during the hours of active business life that kills. It is malaria absorbed during the hours of rest. When in the summer months the residents of Portland fly to the seaside or elsewhere, the people at MOUNT TABOR enjoy their fruits and flowers and an Italian summer, and laugh at the fears of Portlanders, and THANK GOD that they do not have to desert their homes, since THERE IS NO MALARIA ON MOUNT TABOR.

Send stamp for circular describing this new treatment to A. H. Dixon & Son, 303 West King street, Toronto, Canada. By special request Mr. Dixon, Sr., will be at the Gilman House, Portland, June 14, 15 and 16. Sufferers should call and see him. Consultation free.

A SONG OF COLORS

A raveled rainbow overhead
[illegible]els down to life its varying thread
Love's blue, joy's gold and fair between
Hope's shining light of emerald green

With either side in deep relief
A crimson pain, a violet grief.
Wouldst thou amid their gleaming hues
Clutch after those and these refuse

Believe, as thy beseeching eyes
Follow their lines and sound the skies
There, where the fadeless glories shine
An unseen angel twists the twine

And be thou sure what tint soe'er
The broken rays beneath may wear
[illegible] needs them all, that broad and bright
God's love may weave the perfect white

[illegible] ambulance began to [illegible] laden with their dreadful freight. A [illegible] covered [illegible] army wagon fol[illegible] literally piled with human forms in [illegible] Moans and cries [illegible] but painful proceeded from it

Opposite the cottage [illegible] by a [illegible] threw one of the wounded men from the rear of the wagon into the road. The driver kept straight on, never noticing the occurrence

"I say!" Eleazer Claypole shouted "Hold on there, you've lost part o' your [illegible]"

The driver was a soldier detailed for the hospital work. He heard the voice but un[illegible] a word of the world. He look[illegible] over his shoulder and saw the [illegible] figure of the old Marylander in his [illegible] homespun crown [illegible] with a [illegible] quilt [illegible] He could not see the [illegible] and motionless figure in the dust [illegible] that [illegible] was merely an inquiry [illegible] the [illegible]

[illegible] went with her [illegible] cup to the [illegible] of the road. Her [illegible] was [illegible] youth, scarcely more than [illegible] in blue of the infantry soldiers now [illegible] with dust. His face was smooth [illegible] girl's, his hair was [illegible] with blood, his eyes were closed [illegible] Cynthia at first thought him dead, but [illegible] set her handkerchief and washed the [illegible] from his face and brow, she distinctly heard a sigh

"[illegible] father [illegible]" she cried "we must [illegible] him into the house. Come and help [illegible]"

"Well it's queer enough [illegible] him!" Mr Claypole remarked. "[illegible] come to. Let me try"

The peddler filled the sponge with spirits and held it to the nose of the unconscious youth. There was a convulsion of the muscles, an opening of the eyes—and the subject raised himself to his elbow. He looked about him, stared at Cynthia and her father, and seemed utterly lost

"Where am I?" he demanded. "What has happened?"

"Can't you think?" suggested Mr Claypole

The great din of the distant artillery caught his ear

"Is it a battle?" he asked. "The boys said we'd be sure to have one to day; was it to day—or a month ago? I can't tell. I don't seem to remember anything"

"There's been fighting since early this morning," said Cynthia

He looked from one to the other in perfect vacancy

"Poor fellow!" Mr Claypole said with unwonted tenderness. "Does your head hurt you?"

"Head"

The soldier put up his hand and discovered the slight wound

"A little. I didn't know it till you spoke of it. I guess I'm all right"

He put his feet to the floor and stood up. He walked to the window, looked out, came back and sat in a chair. Manifestly he had no other wound

"I'm lost," he said in a voice so strange and with such wildness in his eyes that the two were startled. "I want you to tell me—tell me who I am and how I came here"

"You fell out of a Yankee wagon carrying wounded from the big fight over yonder [illegible] We took you in [illegible] You're a soldier of course, for we're in rear of their lines, and your dress [illegible] that you was with 'em, but as to who you [illegible]"

The soldier looked at Claypole much as though he were giving him a revelation from another world

Then he struck his palm upon his forehead [illegible] with irritation and anger

"I don't know, I tell you! Only that we crossed the creek last night and slept on the ground. There were thousands of us. This morning, you say it was this morning—we were in the fight. It was all noise and confusion and I saw a good many fall. Then something struck me. I felt as though a mountain had fallen on me. That's all I know"

"Well, tell us your name and where you are from. What regiment was you in?"

His impatience was all gone. Cynthia, looking at his fair boyish face, was awed by his look and tone [illegible] made the strange reply

"I do not know"

Eleazer Claypole had supposed that a night's rest of mind and body would [illegible] the disordered memory of their [illegible] It was not so. He awoke the next day free from pain and grateful for the kind attentions he had received, but the past save as he had dimly outlined it from the evening before the battle was to him a dead blank. That there was a great civil war going on in the land, that he had been engaged in it on the union side, he perfectly understood, but his own name, where was his home, who were his kin, were things that were now to him as though they had never been. His personality was utterly gone

How was it—why was it? Could it be the singular after effect of the stunning wound produced by the bullet? Was he a recruit who precipitated into the bloody scenes and deafening sounds of the great battle had suffered an entire effacement of memory out of sheer fright? Did both causes conjoined produce the result? We can only say that none of the learned psychologists who have reasoned upon similar cases have succeeded in satisfying their own minds as to the truth

One phase of the lost soldier's condition [illegible] manifested itself and must be here noticed. His dim memory of the scenes of the morning's battle seemed to increase its horrors one hundred fold. He could not [illegible] of it or hear it spoken of without a shudder

"I will not go back to the army," he said [illegible] to Mr Claypole. "My heart is sick with the little I can recall of war. If they come for me you must hide me. If you won't, I will kill myself"

There was no pride to [illegible] that the world's [illegible] and content were [illegible] not from him though he hid [illegible] in the middle of [illegible] Toward Claypole and his daughter he felt and acted as though they were his protectors and guardians [illegible] preservers

He had not been twenty four hours in the house when Cynthia was surprised, possibly gratified by a confession which her father privately made to her

[illegible] Claypole had grown [illegible] continental. Wonders do not cease

"Cynthia," he said, with a shaky voice, "your poor mother (which I hope is in heaven) in [illegible] a little feller [illegible] most two years [illegible] you was born. You can't [illegible] him. He died [illegible] but if he had lived [illegible] the age of this feller [illegible] this chap [illegible] I don't blame him that his wits was [illegible] with their murderin' [illegible] over yonder. We'll help him, Cynthia! We'll hide him in the dark cellar if they come with their guns and bayonets after him. I've got a plan for him, girl. I'm gettin' too old to go round with the cart. He'll do it when these here fightin' crowds go across the river again. He'll [illegible] the garden. See?"

At that early hour of her acquaintance with the lost soldier Cynthia had no reason why her father's plan should or should not [illegible] Her [illegible] toward the youth at that time was of that mild and growing interest with which we regard those for whom we have done a favor

Without unnecessary detail it may be stated that Mr Claypole's plan was successfully carried out

Before the army of the Potomac moved over the river the provost guard visited and searched the house for absentees without leave and stragglers. The fugitive was skillfully hidden and neither Claypole nor his daughter recoiled from a little falsehood on his behalf. Several times afterward during the war when the shifting campaigns brought the armies into or near this region it was deemed safer for him whose strange fortunes we are narrating to seek the concealment of a mountain retreat where the peddler had sometimes passed a night when overtaken by a storm. The suit of [illegible] which was suppl[illegible] neighbors who took any interest in the humble concerns of this family were informed that [illegible] was Randolph Claypole, a nephew from the Eastern shore, who would now make his home here

The lapse of a few years and the [illegible] of the war put an end to any apprehension [illegible] to the arrest and return to the army of Randolph. Nothing whatever had been learned by his new friends concerning him. To himself and to them his existence had begun on that memorable 17th of September 1862. He was a man without a past

If disguise had any longer been necessary, the years had effected it. His slender form had grown stout, the boyish form was matured and covered with a profusion of hair

Another change naturally anticipated by the reader had occurred [illegible] occurred, in fact before the war had ended. Cynthia was the lost soldier's wife. Their union was childless, except for this there was happiness and contentment in that cottage

The catastrophe that was impending was brought about by the expression of an un[illegible] Eleazer Claypole

Upon being relieved by Randolph from the cares and labors of the peddler's cart he had devoted himself sedulously to his gardening, rarely going half a mile from his home. He grew aged and garrulous [illegible] the world in his eyes revolved around that cottage

But one morning he astonished his children by declaring that he must visit the battle ground

"I never thought much of the fightin' while it was goin' on," he began half apologetically. "But now it's all done long ago, I don't mind seein' where they fit. An' Jake Lawless says they've fixed up things along the creek over yonder in astonishin' shape. Says they've put up a great stone soldier, tall as a church steeple, an' they've got a great buryin' ground, with five thousand graves, an' there's now taverns there an' a lot of visitors every day, an' a railroad depot an' what not. Say we go over"

"Have you ever been there, Randolph?" his wife inquired

"Not I. Once when I had business at Sharpsburg I sent a man to do it"

"Well, sonny," for the old man often used this affectionate style of address, "you ain't in any danger now, I reckon. Nobody'd say boo to you in these times for anything that happened way back in '62. So you hitch up the cart an' we'll ride over"

Randolph reluctantly complied. Not that he had any fears for his personal safety; it was simply the old horror of the place

His wife observed him with anxiety

"If you don't wish to go, tell him you can't," she urged

He made no reply. What impelled him forward on a way that was repugnant to him? Who could tell?

It was hardly a pleasant party that the old cart drawn by the [illegible] slow sorrel carried over to the battle ground that afternoon. [illegible] Claypole was quite [illegible] but the others were silent and uneasy. They passed the brick house that was noticed [illegible] McClellan [illegible] and turned [illegible] Sharpsburg. Some score of visitors were there [illegible] great [illegible] impressive [illegible] great [illegible]

A veteran of the [illegible] had, in poor but decent garments [illegible] was simply [illegible] down

"Our [illegible] Wayland [illegible] we [illegible] the [illegible] stones give no guide"

"[illegible] for what you are [illegible] Mr Claypole [illegible] politeness

She kissed [illegible] sympathy was expressed [illegible]

"For my [illegible] sir. He is supposed to have been killed in this battle. He was a recruit in a Pennsylvania regiment. He only left me three weeks before it was fought and was never heard of after that day. This poor boy was born six months after his father enlisted and never saw him"

His [illegible] "We'll gladly help you [illegible]"

"[illegible] His name was Wayland [illegible] well"

"Wayland Brownell! Great God!"

It was the voice of him who had been for years known as Randolph Claypole. He stood with staring eyes as the simple mention of a name restored the long obliterated past before his eyes. He knew himself again. He recognized her who was the bride of his youth. He recalled the old home by the Susquehanna

She saw his agitation and divined its cause. She looked closely at him and knew him

The scene passed before the eyes of Cynthia. There was no need to explain it to her; its dreadful meaning was perfectly clear

Among the graves of thousands who happier than he had fallen in the great battle the man stood stunned and miserable

Massive Gates to Flood's Grounds—Art [illegible] Doors which Cost $15 000

San Francisco Chronicle

For five weeks past visitors on California Hill may have noticed a man patiently picking holes into the massive stone piers which guard the two carriage ways leading to J C Flood's residence. One of these entrances faces [illegible] Mason street, and the other [illegible] Sacramento. The piers are of [illegible] brown stone, nine feet high, profusely molded and surmounted by a [illegible] During the operation of sinking the [illegible] a rough board fence had been erected on the site [illegible] to guard against intrusion. Several [illegible] ago huge truck wagons, loaded down with heavy material made their appearance [illegible] soon after by a party of laborers, by whose help the cargo was deposited on the sidewalk. [illegible] consisted of four bronze skeleton gates [illegible] feet each and four inches thick [illegible] placed in position, the last one [illegible] Wednesday, although it will yet [illegible] two weeks before he work on them will be completed

The gates were designed by Augustus [illegible] about eighteen months ago, with instructions to make them as massive as beauty and taste would allow. The plans [illegible] completed, were placed in the hands of [illegible] foundry of this city about nine months ago and operations were [illegible] begun [illegible] the building of the gates [illegible] seven men [illegible] have been constantly employed in the manufacture of the various parts, each of which is designed to fill a specific position when the gates are completed. The estimated weight of each half, of which there are two to each gate, is [illegible] pounds, aggregating a total of [illegible] pounds, the cost being about $15 000

The material used is polished bronze, which at a distance, glistens like gold. The doors are divided into horizontal and perpendicular panels on top and sides, which are filled in with guilloche moulding, terminating at each end in a raised roset of beautiful design. In the center is seen an immense lion's head, with jaws slightly distended, from which hangs a polished ring. From this centerpiece, radiating to the four corners and terminating [illegible] are narrow stiles surmounted by raised knob mold[illegible] In the triangular spaces thus formed is a network of fancy curves, with inter winding branches, showing leaves and buds. The lower triangle, by way of contrast, shows a corrugated front with small knobs [illegible] at regular intervals. The lower panel is [illegible] constructed on this order, the only difference being that it lacks the knobs. [illegible] panel is adorned with a shield upon which a [illegible] shaped monogram surrounded by twigs and leaves has been placed. Upon the hinge side at the top is a raised moulding [illegible] with that on the stone pier, thus forming a perfect perspective. Two steel pintels six inches in width, one inch thick and [illegible] the pier to a depth of twenty inches hold the gates in position. Massive hinges [illegible] with a movable steel pivot, upon which the gates swing, are bolted to the pintels, the whole being hidden from the eye by means of a guilloched panel corresponding with the design on the gate. Two [illegible] are fastened at the bottom of each gate leaf, which are designed to sustain the massive weight and assist in their laborious handling. The body of the doors were cast in one piece each, the ornaments, however, having been carved by hand. These are fastened to the frame by means of [illegible] head screws, the whole being afterward polished with chemicals

Although unfinished as yet, it is stated that the gates are the finest and most [illegible] on the Pacific coast, if not in the United States. The design is beautiful, and the work exceptionally fine in every particular. They correspond in style and design with the bronze fence two feet high, of which there are about [illegible] feet, erected at an expense of nearly $[illegible]

The entire mansion ground is thus surrounded with the exception of that portion facing the [illegible] and that occupied by the stairway leading to the front entrance. At this point between the [illegible] stone piers at the base and the [illegible] at the top of the first stair landing similar gates, though somewhat smaller, will be erected. The plans have already been drawn and the work begun. When these two gates are in position Mr Flood's residence will be surrounded on three sides by a continuous line of bronze artistic [illegible] During becoming years the work will reflect credit upon a notable industry of San Francisco

NOTES FROM [illegible]

[illegible], W T, June [illegible]

There has been a steady stream of settlers pouring into this county this spring and the choicer sections of lands near the towns have been eagerly taken

The late rains have been of immeasurable value to farmers of the Inland Empire. Crops are looking finely in Adams county, and a bountiful harvest is assured

Quite a settlement has been made this year in the southern part of the county. Several bored wells have been put down and water is found in inexhaustible quantities at a depth of 100 to 225 feet. This [illegible] on the high land and not in the coulees, where it is obtained at a depth of fifty feet. The boring of these wells seems to indicate that at that depth there is a water bearing rock, and when it is reached you are [illegible] of water. The machinery for the artesian well has been delayed on account of trouble at the Mullan tunnel

Adams county, which is larger than the state of Rhode Island, is rapidly coming to the front, and promises to be one of the best farming counties in the territory. The town is building steadily, and with its unsurpassed school and church opportunities is an inviting place to one who desires to make him a home

Another encouraging feature of this locality is the ease with which timber is grown. The states of Minnesota, Iowa and other of the Mississippi valley states, cannot excel us in timber growing, whether on the high or low land it grows finely, and all kinds do well. Farmers who have put out orchards report fine growths and orchards old enough are well [illegible] fruit

The Geo. W. Elder, at San Francisco 7th inst., [illegible] 1300 sacks oats from Utsalady, Puget sound.

It is stated that the brokers of the San Francisco call board are about to establish two more daily sessions, one to be held at 9:30 A. M. and one at [illegible] o'clock P. M.

Efforts are being made by those interested to do away with the present rule of the San Francisco call board operating against delivery of Oregon wheat on option sales. The claim is made that wheat should be deliverable subject to any deficiency in grade.

Says an interior California paper is not far from the point: "The Sacramento as a source of supply for salmon-canning has seen its day. [illegible] for salmon will continue to be taken [illegible] of salmon, as in the Kennebec and Connecticut for years, as in the salmon are gone from the Sacramento; but the Indians and the herds of elk and [illegible] like the Indians and the herds that once roamed its tule-lined banks. A [illegible] can no more renew the salmon supply [illegible] a few years ago to the Sacramento than it [illegible] restock its waters with the megalosaurus of the [illegible] period. Ignorance and greed are fast [illegible] the noble Columbia to the same condition. Then the salmon will be crowded up to the [illegible] the last refuge of the whale and the [illegible]."

A correspondence in a San Francisco paper: In reviewing the occurrences of the past three weeks [illegible] be said that the attempted corner in buyer [illegible] wheat never came to a head, but was allowed to run out naturally. Its final results were [illegible] unsatisfactory to both buyers and sellers of [illegible]. The same was the case with the [illegible] wheat contracts against which delivery [illegible] being demanded. It is almost certain that [illegible] no more corners will be attempted in [illegible] of buyer options in our call board, where [illegible] speculation is split up into about ten kinds [illegible] options, instead of being confined to [illegible] options, as is the case in all other grain [illegible]. Concerning seller options it is evident [illegible] as the seller in our call board is denied [illegible] with the buyer, it will remain utterly [illegible] to develop a sufficiently large short interest for making wheat speculation a paying [illegible] in San Francisco. Under present regulations in San Francisco the seller in our board is obliged to employ [illegible] carrier for carrying the grain five days before delivery can be made. These grain carriers, [illegible] many parties are looked upon as Shylocks, [illegible] their occupation if the five days' notice [illegible] was repealed.

A steamship is building at San Francisco for account of the Canadian Pacific road. Unofficially the statement has been made that she is to carry freight and passengers to the western terminus of the road from San Francisco, Portland or on Puget sound. At present American steamers are [illegible] freight from San Francisco although the company owns the British steamer Sardonyx. That foreign vessels have been employed is doubtless [illegible] of laws prohibiting foreign vessels freighting between two American ports. Freight originating in California or Oregon and shipped via the Canadian Pacific to New York or other United States port would doubtless have to be taken to the western terminus in American bottoms if in [illegible] on through billing. Perhaps it is this that [illegible] giving work to an American shipyard. Yet it is an open question whether or not an American [illegible] must be employed and one that has doubtless been thoroughly looked into by Canadian Pacific officials. The steamer now being built will have to go under the American flag if the law will [illegible] permit foreigners to do this freighting. Being built in this country there will be no trouble in enrolling her. The Sardonyx will probably confine herself to the carriage of freight for British Columbia and Asia and this is the only sort so far [illegible] for. Apparently it is easy to construe the law as covering freight from one American point to another through the same pass through another country. For the most part [illegible] is carried in bond and so [illegible] said to not leave the United States. The same freight would not be carried be ice to New York direct in a foreign bottom, and whether it can be taken to Canada by foreign bottoms, through Canada under customs regulations, and to New York by American roads, is perhaps open to debate. The building in this country of the steamer spoken of looks very much as though international law did cut a figure, and that the steamer will fly the American flag.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours include 173 ctls wheat, 182 bbls flour, 710 ctls oats, 220 ctls barley, 11 sks potatoes, 12 930 lbs hides, 25 pkgs butter, 25 cs eggs, 16 bxs dried fruit, 38 cattle.

WHEAT—Foreign markets hardly so firm, but [illegible] the large quantity off coast moved the feeling [illegible]. The lively see-saw in June wheat at New York and Chicago yesterday is not continued. It opened higher at New York, and held up. San Francisco is a very quiet market. Here there is nothing done. Prices hold up in the interior.

OATS—Slow of sale at 52@55c. Dealers are quite well stocked.

POTATOES—New 1¼c.

EGGS—Held up to 20c, although receipts are [illegible]. The request is good.

WOOL—Valley growers are getting 22@25c at [illegible], a rate that is not justified by the situation, and that is beyond reasonable speculation.

SUGARS—The decline of one-eighth of a cent [illegible] makes new 60-day prices: Golden C [illegible], extra C [illegible], confectioners' A 8c, dry granulated [illegible], cube crushed fine do and powdered, [illegible].

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Business at the stock exchange to-day was a little larger in volume, due to renewed interest in one or two stocks. The general list displayed the same characteristics as yesterday, dullness being the principal feature. The opening was firm at advances of ⅛@⅜ over yesterday's final figures. There was a fair amount of business in the first few minutes, but the market soon became dull and so remained throughout the day. A period of stagnation followed, and during the afternoon a general heavy tone was noticed. The market continued devoid of special feature, and closed steady, close to the opening figures. A great majority of the active list show fractional changes.

THEY WILL DRINK.

New Ways of Dodging the Rhode Island Prohibitory Law.

"Do you see that boy with the satchel?" remarked a business man to a Providence (R. I.) correspondent of the Sun the other day. "That is the latest style for carrying drinks." The boy, apparently about 9 years of age, was barefooted, in everyday attire, and the large satchel was the only indication that he had any definite object in view in being on the street. The satchel, the writer's informant explained, contained a bottle, and the bottle was probably full of the liquid which can be lawfully bought only on a physician's prescription. The boy did not look as if he was in search of a doctor.

This is but an instance of the hypocrisy which has become prevalent under prohibition and of the methods resorted to in order to maintain an appearance of compliance with the law, or rather to afford the authorities an excuse for ignoring its violation. While the writer was conversing with the business man before mentioned, an express wagon passed. It contained several flour barrels on end.

"That's the latest style for delivering whisky and ale," remarked the well-informed denizen. "Every one of those barrels contain a keg or bottles and the driver is a rumseller."

And, truly enough, the wagon turned into a gateway, near a building whose front windows were decorated with such signs as "Bavarian Tonic," "Non-Intoxicating Hop Beer," "Vienna Malt Bitters," etc. It is amusing to note the various names under which formerly honest beverages are now disguised. One of the writer's favorite tipples in former years was ginger ale, an innocent decoction, with a warming and stimulating influence on the stomach. Since prohibition set in the then "ginger ale" has changed its properties in a most alarming manner, and, as dispensed at the average bar, it now resembles the strongest brew that ever paid a government tax in Albany or New Hampshire. Hop and root beers have also become demoralized, and the only safe course for a consistent abstainer is to confine himself to milk, ice cream and tea. Coffee also is usually above suspicion, though liable to be flavored with brandy.

Cancer of the Tongue.

My wife, some three or four years ago, was troubled with an ulcer on the side of her tongue near the throat. The pain was incessant, causing loss of sleep and producing great nervous prostration. Accompanying this trouble was rheumatism. It had passed from the shoulders and centered in the wrist of one hand, she almost losing the use of it. Between the suffering of the two, life had grown burdensome. By the use of a half dozen small-sized bottles of Swift's Specific, she was entirely relieved and restored to health. This was three years ago, and there has been no return of the disease.

DR. LIEBIG'S
WONDERFUL
GERMAN
INVIGORATOR.

THE OLDEST, GREATEST AND BEST REMEDY for the cure of Nervous and Physical Debility, Vital Exhaustion, Seminal Weakness, Loss of Manhood, Failing Memory, and Relaxed and Enfeebled condition of the Genito-Urinary Organs.

It speedily cures Impotence, Early Decay, Loss of Vigor, SEMINAL WEAKNESS, and all the sad effects of youthful follies and abuse or EXCESSES OF MATURITY.

It permanently prevents all unnatural loss from the system, as thousands can attest who have used the Remedy in the past quarter of a century which it has been before the public.

It is indeed a wonderful remedy—toning the nerves, strengthening the muscles, checking the waste, invigorating the whole system and restoring the afflicted to HEALTH and HAPPINESS.

The reason so many cannot get cured of Weakness and the above diseases is owing to complication called PROSTATORRHEA with Hyperesthesia, which requires special treatment.

DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR NO. 2, with our peculiar special treatment, is the only possible cure for PROSTATORRHEA. By it MANHOOD is restored and the hand of time moved back from age to youth.

Price of either Invigorator $2. Case of six bottles $10. Sent to any address covered securely from observation.

Dr. Liebig & Co. treat successfully by Homoeopathy every form of SPECIAL, PRIVATE or CHRONIC DISEASE without mercury or nauseous drugs. If vitality is drained from the body, numerous diseases follow that baffle ordinary medical treatment. If allowed to continue, the unnatural loss causes Consumption, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Insanity, etc. Cures guaranteed. Diseases of the genito urinary organs, kidneys, liver and bladder specially treated. DISEASES OF WOMEN SPEEDILY CURED.

Qualified and responsible.—Dr. Liebig & Co. from Prussia, are regular college educated physicians and are now in their nineteenth year of special practice.

If pimples appear on the face and body, if you become listless and easily tired and exhausted, look out for the complications of Seminal Weakness, discovered at the LIEBIG DISPENSARY, known as Prostatorrhea. DR. LIEBIG'S INVIGORATOR NO. 2 is the only known remedy for the above complication. Prostatorrhea.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

AN INNOVATION AT ALISKY'S.—Appreciating a constant demand for quiet apartments where parties can procure in private, meals, oysters and ice cream and enjoy the same without observation, Messrs Baum & Brandes, with this object in view, have had a corps of painters and upholsterers at work in placing in a complete and elaborate manner the store at No 28 Alder street. There are eight rooms, with tables capable of accommodating four persons. These rooms are elegantly furnished and supplied with electric bells. The entire establishment wears a pleasing appearance, and will be a genuine surprise to those who find it convenient to indulge in refreshments at their leisure. Messrs. Baum & Brandes have spared neither pains nor expense in making this a resort which will please the most fastidious. While the old and attractive restaurant on First street is continued as usual, the attention to the new connection will be as perfect as heretofore. To day these additional rooms will be open for inspection and at 5 P M and thenceforth the new quarters will be operated upon the plan of the old establishment in every particular. The entrance to the new rooms, be it remembered is at No [illegible] Alder street. A general invitation is extended to the public to call as above and look through the rooms.

A DELINQUENT WATER CONSUMER.—For several days the water committee have had a standing notice that water will be shut off from all consumers whose rents are unpaid June 10. Now there is one consumer whose account is full on the books, namely, the city of Portland. It owes for water furnished the city jail, the offices in the council building, [illegible] street sprinkling and for fire purposes, and the city shows no disposition to pay the bills. Now, suppose the committee apply the rule to the city of Portland? The city will have to obey the rule or do without water. Of course there is no likelihood that water for [illegible] fires will be shut off, but there is [illegible] that if the city uses water for street sprinkling next month, the water will be [illegible] the same as if private parties used it.

OREGON'S NATURAL CURIOSITIES.—To day's [illegible] of the Portland Journal of Commerce contains an interesting description of a recent visit of one of its editors to the wonderful limestone caves in the mountains of Josephine county. Though the existence of these caves has been known in the locality for some time, it is only lately that they have been claimed and any [illegible] attempt made to explore them. Already about three miles of subterranean passages and chambers have been discovered, and in [illegible] beauty and interest they are likely to [illegible] the famous caves of Kentucky. Those especially who have failed to find attractions in Oregon will do well to read the description in the Portland Journal of Commerce. For sale [illegible] Wilcox, news stand 1[illegible]0 First street.

SUFFERING FROM NERVOUSNESS.—B M Bramhall, the young man under arrest for embezzling $120 of the funds of the Travelers' Insurance Company, was arraigned in Justice Tuttle's court yesterday. Bramhall was suffering from extreme nervous excitement, and informed the court that as he was unable to collect his scattered senses he would like a continuance of the case. He was told he could have until Monday, if he desired, for a preliminary examination. Bramhall considered awhile and finally concluded to waive examination to appear before the grand jury, and in the meantime to endeavor to procure a legal adviser. Since Bramhall's arrest the books of the company have been more fully examined and a shortage of $[illegible]0 more discovered.

TO ST HELENS.—At [illegible] o'clock Sunday morning the magnificent steamer Alaskan will leave Ash street wharf for an excursion to St. Helens, where excursionists can spend the day in the beautiful groves surrounding that place. The bluffs at St Helens afford a grand view of the mountains and surrounding country. Those that desire can carry their own lunch baskets, and those who do not care to bother with them can secure ice cream, sandwiches and coffee on board the steamer. Fare for the round trip, 75 cents. Returning the Alaskan will arrive at Portland at 5 P M. This is one of the best short trip excursions of the season. Pray & Parson's band will accompany the excursion.

GRAND JURY WORK.—Yesterday the grand jury returned four indictments against Harry O Bristone for passing fraudulent checks. One was passed on Louis Sechtem, and the others on F L Armstrong, Charles Sliter and Finley M [illegible]. Five not true bills were found, as follows: John Kilgour, John Shullenbach and Charles Blank accused of malicious injury to the personal property of Theodore Liebe, of the Oregon Steam Bakery, in breaking a sewer pipe; [illegible] Sutter, who assaulted Enoch Newsome with a shotgun, and Joseph Miller, for assault with a rock on A. H Gerulf.

TO ASTORIA.—One dollar to Astoria and return June 14 and 15 good for return until June [illegible] inclusive. On Tuesday and Wednesday next, June 14 and 15, the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company will sell excursion tickets to Astoria and return by their regular U S mail steamers leaving Ash street wharf at 6 A M every morning except Sunday. The tickets will be good for return up to Saturday, June [illegible]. Returning from Astoria the steamer leaves [illegible] morning except Sunday, at 6 A M. This [illegible] best opportunity ever offered to visit the [illegible] of America.

FREDERICK WARDE AS "BRUTUS."

There is no character among the almost myriad creations of Shakespeare's immortal pen more worthy the actor's powers than that noble Roman, Marcus Brutus, in the historic tragedy, "Julius Cæsar." There is such a simple dignity about the man, honor has her very seat in him, and love of country has descended to him as a heritage from his illustrious ancestors. He hates the darkness of conspiracy, yet so moulded and influenced is he by those about him, especially the shrewd and cunning Cassius, that he sees no other way to free his country from the yoke of tyranny. Once consenting, he treads the thorny way, and with that noble sacrifice to be expected from one like him yields up his life a willing victim to the cause of freedom.

The greatest actors of our day have joyed in portraying the gentleness and noble worth of this great heart and Mr Warde will compare most favorably with the best of them. He acts the part with most discriminating and artistic taste, and reads the lines correctly and most admirably. There is the noble bearing, the quiet dignity and self containment that is the very key note to the character. His scene with Cassius in the tent is carried finely and his action and speech when he reveals to his astonished brother in arms the death of his loved Portia was a fine bit of dramatic work. One could suffer with him in his grief, it is so real. In his several scenes with Cassius throughout the play the contrast between the two is admirably presented—the one eager and full of impetuosity, the other cool, calm and deliberate. Mr Warde received several enthusiastic calls.

Mr Charles D Herman's Cassius was also a most creditable piece of work. He was earnest vigorous and forcible in all his scenes, but especially in the first act, when he rails to Brutus against Cæsar, and in the quarrel scene in the fourth act. His reading generally is correct and intelligent, but there is a kind of inflexibility about his voice that with care and practice might be remedied.

Mr Thomas L Garrick's Marc Antony was well done, especially his delivery of the oration over the body of Cæsar.

Miss Eugenia Blair made a pleasing Portia, and Miss Margaret Pierce was a good Calphurnia.

Mr L. F Rand as the gruff, blunt speaking Casca, Mr Walter H Edwards as Decius, Mr Howard Kyle as Octavius Cæsar, Mr James B Howe as the First Citizen, and Mr Charles B Charters at Lucius, were all good, the last receiving a round for his fine rendering of Antony's message to Brutus after the killing of Cæsar. The remainder of the cast, with the exception of the unfortunate gentleman who essayed the role of Julius Cæsar, were all equal to the demands of their respective parts. It can be said with truth that so badly had he read his lines, what few he remembered, and so uncertain was he in these that the audience breathed a sigh of relief when the "envious Casca's" dagger punctured him. We would advise Mr Hatch to devote much time in the future to the training of his memory, for there is no murder so foul, from a dramatic point of view, as the butchering of the immortal bard's transcendent creations by incompetent journeymen. At the matinee to day Mr Warde will appear in two light comedy characters, Petruchio in Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," and Citizen Sangfroid in a little French comedy entitled "Delicate Ground." To night "Galba, the Gladiator," which closes the engagement.

DEATH OF E. M. BURTON.

THE PIONEER ARCHITECT EXPIRES SUDDENLY AT HIS RESIDENCE IN THIS CITY

A few minutes past noon yesterday, E M Burton, the well known architect, died at his residence, corner of North Ninth and B streets, of catarrhal inflammation, aged 70 years and 4 months. His death was sudden and unexpected. For some time past he had suffered from what he thought was heart trouble, which he feared might take him off, and though he was weakened, he never was confined to his bed. During the week he attended to business down town and was in good spirits. Thursday night he retired early and rested well until 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when he arose, dressed and seated himself in a reclining chair, that position being the easiest for him. About an hour afterward he was seized with a spasm, became unconscious, and so remained until death, which was painless. It seems that he had not enough strength to throw off the mucus, which settled on his lungs and stopped his respiration.

Mr Burton was born in Herkimer county, New York. He had been a resident of Portland for the last thirty five years, and was in a considerable degree identified with its growth since that time. He was one of the California pioneers of '49, but escaped a serious attack of the gold fever and returned to the East. Three years later he was again borne on the tide of immigration toward the Pacific coast, and having reached Portland, halted here and made it his home. For years he was the leading architect of the state, and many buildings of the growing city were erected on the plans drawn by his hands. The schools designed by him were North, Central and Park and the county court house is also his work.

Until late in life he was active in all matters of public interest. He served the city at one time in the common council and the county one term as commissioner. He was well known to all old residents, and had the respect of all who knew him.

He leaves a wife and five children, namely Mrs H L Pittock, Misses Helen, Myra and Carrie Burton, and Mr L H Burton of La Camas. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at [illegible] o'clock from his late residence.

THIRD WARD REPUBLICANS.

A MASS MEETING SELECTS CANDIDATES FOR DELEGATES TO THE CONVENTION

In response to a call published yesterday many of the republicans of the Third ward met at Montgomery hall last evening to select candidates for delegates to be presented at the primary meeting this evening. About 300 persons were present.

The meeting was called to order by Judge W H Adams of the city committee, who moved that Judge D C Lewis be elected chairman of the meeting. A vote being taken Mr Lewis was unanimously elected.

Mr T B Allen moved that a committee of five be appointed by the chair to present to the meeting a list of eleven delegates for the Third ward to be voted for at the city primary. The motion carried, and the chair appointed Messrs T B Allen, S G Bunting, Geo A Steel, F D Matthews and H W Monnastes as such committee.

A recess of ten minutes was taken to allow the committee to prepare a list of candidates.

The committee in due time submitted the following report:

To the republicans of the Third ward: Your committee appointed to select names for submission to this meeting for its approval as delegates to be voted for at the republican primary election to be held in the Third ward, City of Portland, to morrow (Saturday) evening, beg leave to report that we have agreed upon the following persons and recommend that they be declared the choice of this meeting: A W Stowell, W H Adams, Lewis Love, Jonathan Bourne Jr, W [illegible] Masters, W R Sewell, R G Coombs, F Hacheney, D Monnastes, J A Strowbridge and A F [illegible].

The report was adopted.

The secretary was instructed to have 5,000 tickets printed for use at the primaries.

CATCHING SALMON FOR FUN.

GOOD SPORT AT OREGON CITY FALLS—TROUTING IN THE CLACKAMAS

Fishermen are having fine sport now at the falls at Oregon City catching salmon. A party of over twenty were fishing there at one time on Thursday and there are quite a number trying their luck every day. Some catch none, but the patient fisherman who sticks to his work is generally rewarded with two or three and sometimes more fish. The fish do not seem to care for a spoon, and salmon roe is used as bait. A good many fish are hooked which cannot be landed on account of the rocks and swift water.

A very exciting scene was witnessed the other day, when four fishermen hooked salmon at the same time. Two of the lines became entangled at once and a moment after the other two fish crossed each other's path and entangled the lines to which they were attached. There was some lively pulling and hauling and jumping around for a time and it is to be feared that some profane language was used, but fortunately all four of the salmon were safely landed and all was quiet on the Willamette.

There is also fine fishing up the Clackamas both for salmon and mountain trout. Mr M A Magone, of Oregon City, yesterday left at THE OREGONIAN office a genuine mountain trout, weighing two pounds as a sample of his catch in the Clackamas. He takes a boat in a wagon and goes up the river sixteen miles and gaily launches his bark upon the stream, and floats down, fishing as he goes, and catching 'em right and left. A more enjoyable trip cannot be imagined. There is some fine scenery on the stream and lots of fine pools and riffles and when the fish are plenty, Great Cæsar what a lot of sport one can have on such a trip.

THE STAGE.

BAIRD'S MINSTRELS.—Next Monday evening, June 13, Baird's mammoth minstrels open at the New Market for one week, including Saturday matinee. Of a recent performance at Riverside, Cal, the Press of May [illegible] says: "Riverside is becoming noted for its appreciation and support of first class amusements whether dramatic, minstrel or musical—except when the weather is so cold the pavilion cannot be made comfortable. Last night was no exception to this rule and the hall was crowded with one of the best pleased audiences of the season. [illegible] Baird has won a name for giving an excellent performance and last night he sustained it by the best minstrel entertainment ever given in Riverside. It was strictly fun without the least shade of vulgarity and vocal and instrumental music of a very high order. There were no [illegible] everything was [illegible] from beginning to end [illegible] the long [illegible] and well balanced programme.

"Many of the old favorites [illegible] company and some new faces. Among [illegible] are Lew Benedict and [illegible] Rogers [illegible] best performers on the minstrel stage [illegible] country. Each is [illegible] best in his line, and with such assistants as Goodyear, Mack, Conway and the others, they kept the audience in a perfect ripple of laughter from the rise to the fall of the curtain."

Ellsworth Cook has a fine soprano voice of great compass and power, one of the best we ever heard, and added much to the evening's entertainment.

W S Pollard [illegible] profundo of the company, and gave [illegible] treat "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," in his unsurpassable manner.

Every act on the programme was a gem in its way; the band and orchestra were excellent and Mr Baird may be congratulated on his success in establishing his name most firmly in the hearts of our amusement seekers, by which he will be kindly remembered when he comes this way again.

We were disappointed in not meeting Mr Baird, as his large landed interests near Portland, Oregon called him away, but his wife is managing the company during his absence very ably, and keeping it up to its former high standard until his return.

We hope the management will remember Riverside during their travels, and return here again when business calls them this way.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

To morrow will be observed as children's day in several of our Portland churches. The exercises at Calvary church promise to be very interesting. The children will attend both services. There will be a short sermon in the morning especially for the children, but what interests them always interests adults. Some think the twelve or fifteen canary birds to be present will strive for the honors in furnishing sweet music with Ralph Hoyt who will preside at the organ. Mr Wadham, the superintendent of the Sunday school, is sure the children will render the music selected for the occasion to the satisfaction of all. The evening exercises will commence at [illegible] o'clock and will be more of a Sunday school concert than the morning. Several children and misses will give recitations—in fact both services will be more than usually interesting for old and young, and the public are cordially invited to attend.

The Troops Coming from Vancouver—Col Anderson to be Grand Marshal—Company G's Action Approved

Last evening at 8 o clock an adjourned meeting of the Fourth of July committee was held at the council chamber. The most of the members of the committee were present. D D Oliphant in the chair, and Mr. Silverstone, the secretary, in attendance.

Capt. Bosworth of the committee on fireworks reported that the works had been telegraphed for and shipped from the East. A programme had been arranged, but owing to the absence of the president of the committee, Mr Woodard, he could not report definitely as to that feature.

FINANCES

The important question of finances next came up and was discussed at much length. Capt. Bosworth of committee No 2 stated that since the last report he had collected $42[illegible] which swelled the amount to $1[illegible]. Committee No 3 reported [illegible] collected since last meeting. Mr Oliphant of committee No 1 said he had collected [illegible] from the Morrison street bridge; from one hotel the sum of $1[illegible] had been subscribed and two other hotels would pay $[illegible] each. He felt certain that the several lines of street railway would also contribute quite liberally toward the celebration. The president said that thus far the total amount of money in hand in the collections reached just $[illegible] and this amount he thought could be augmented [illegible].

The committee to whom was referred the matter of asking the common council of Portland to appropriate $[illegible] toward purchasing [illegible] to enable the members of the Volunteer Firemen's [illegible] to turn out in good shape, asked for further time. No report could be made at present as the matter had not been acted upon, the council not meeting until next week.

TROOPS COMING FROM VANCOUVER

Capt [illegible] of the committee on [illegible] stated that Col Anderson of Vancouver would bring the [illegible] troops from that place. Col Anderson had been consulted by the committee and an understanding arrived at. The position of grand marshal had been proffered that officer and he had consented to act in that capacity. Capt Beebe then read the following letter:

HEADQUARTERS INFANTRY
VANCOUVER BARRACKS, June [illegible]

Captain [illegible] Col Anderson directs me to say that in accepting the marshalship on the Fourth he cannot [illegible] as his duties here will prevent him from so doing. If entirely satisfactory to the committee he will assume charge on the day of the parade. If it is desired to go into camp, arrangements can be made later and accordingly [illegible] Portland early [illegible] coming week. Very respectfully,
[illegible]
First Lieutenant and Adjutant 14th Infantry.
Capt C [illegible] Beebe [illegible] 1st Reg O S M

THE INVITATIONS

Capt. Beebe also stated that the committee had held two meetings and prepared a list of invitations which had been sent out. The list of invitations include the following:

COL. ANDERSON FOR GRAND MARSHAL

Mr Summers moved that Col Anderson's letter be accepted, placed on file, and that he be declared the unanimous choice of the committee for grand marshal. Carried.

COMPANY G'S ACTION APPROVED

Capt Farrar, of Company G, who was present, was invited to make a statement as to the purposes of his company to visit Tacoma on the Fourth and take part in a competitive drill there. He explained at some length the purpose of a portion of his company to visit Tacoma. It had not been definitely determined yet whether they would go or not. If they did, not more than twenty three men would go, and that would not prevent the company from turning out here and taking part in the procession. Some things had been said at the last meeting in regard to Company G going out of the city on the Fourth and the statements published in the papers which had appeared to reflect on him and the company. He very much regretted that there should have been any feeling whatever in the matter. It was no disrespect whatever to the city or to the citizens. Company G had received many courtesies and favors from the citizens of Portland and he wished it understood that these were keenly appreciated. Under the circumstances the company felt as if they really ought to go to Tacoma and take part in the proposed contest. Their going would not in any manner interfere with the celebration here. He felt that justice had scarcely been done the company and that the matter had not been properly understood. Much more to the same purpose was said by Capt Farrar. Finally he stated that he could not tell if the company would go or not. He thought however that they ought to go under all the circumstances, and that if it were understood properly there would be no reason for any [illegible]

Both Capt Beebe and Mr Summers spoke on the same subject disclaiming any purpose on the part of the committee to reflect on the action of Capt Farrar or his company. Expressions of mutual regard, friendship and military courtesy were made, and after a short discussion [illegible] difference the best and [illegible] kindly feelings prevailed. Finally Mr Summers moved that [illegible] the sense and sentiment of the committee the action of Company G and Capt Farrar be [illegible] approved in regard to the [illegible] visit Tacoma and take part in the competitive drill there, and under the existing circumstances any military company would be perfectly justified in doing so. The motion unanimously prevailed. Capt. Farrar then [illegible] thanks for the [illegible] extended him and retired.

THE COMMITTEE [illegible]

Mr Harris of the committee on music stated that there was a deficit of $[illegible] [illegible] to defray the expenses of furnishing music, and the actual estimate figured down to the lowest amount, was $[illegible]. He asked that $100 be taken from the [illegible] committee and added to that of music. This provoked a long discussion in regard to the expenses of defraying the fireworks and parade, which led to no definite results. Finally Mr Summers moved that the sum of $[illegible] be taken from fireworks and added to music. A warm discussion followed this motion and it was lost.

The committee on military parade submitted an estimate of the cost. Seventy [illegible] dollars was the very lowest figures [illegible] could be reduced according to the programme. Mr Oliphant stated that at present the committee was confronted with a shortage [illegible] at least $[illegible]. How this money should be raised was the subject of much discussion but [illegible] course was determined upon further [illegible] some suggested and very properly [illegible] that the committees on collection call on the citizens for additional contributions.

GOT HIS TEAM BACK

Burns of Albina, who had his team and buggy taken and not returned, succeeded in getting them back. He followed the men who had them from point to point in Washington county, and at last came to the place where they had been left. Martin the man who took the team at no place attempted to dispose of them, but seemed merely driving about, having a good time. Mr Burns will be more careful in the future about letting strangers have his buggy. Nothing has been done with the fellow and, perhaps under the circumstances can anything be done.

IN JUSTICE COURT

Yesterday afternoon Joseph Sturchler was before the justice of the peace charged with the larceny of [illegible] cents from John A. Neill, an auctioneer. The trial was before a jury and the result was the conviction of the defendant. Sturchler came along with a buggy and took Neill to his place of business on Fourth street for which service [illegible] cents were charged. The money was not paid [illegible] when Sturchler went around for the quarter Neill gave him 50 cents and Sturchler walked away without giving the change back, whereupon Neill had him arrested and tried for larceny with the result given above. J A [illegible] appeared for the prosecution and Mr Jolly for defendant.

THE ART OF NATION MAKING

A Great Historian Speaks of the Roman Idea and the English Idea.

Dr John Fiske Describes Three Worlds Methods of Nation Making—A Memorable Lecture and a Deeply Impressed Audience

On yesterday evening the second course of lectures by Prof Fiske opened with a remarkable study of the art of nation making, the dominant ideas of differing ages and people about government and social order. The hall was well filled, the number present being the largest yet assembled since Mr Fiske's arrival, our best citizens gathering from long distances in some cases, and receiving in truth, a rare intellectual feast. No one who heard this lecture can ever forget it.

The lecture began with some references to the various dates assigned by the older and the more recent historians for the fall of the Roman empire—the deposition of Romulus Augustulus in [illegible], the Turkish capture of Constantinople in 1453, the resignation of the Emperor Francis II in 1806, the last being the date now assigned by historians of the school of Freeman and Bryce. In point of fact the Roman imperial power fell by degrees as it rose by degrees. As for the Roman imperial idea, it is not yet extinct. There have been three methods of nation making. First the Oriental method, or conquest without incorporation. Here a conquering [illegible] simply enslaves the vanquished people [illegible] the way from [illegible] taxes, the fruits of their labor [illegible] leave the barest [illegible] than a enabling them [illegible] life and [illegible] them to no political [illegible]. Illustrations of this are furnished [illegible] ancient history of Assyria and Persia and by the later history of Mussulman conquest [illegible] Spain by the Moors, and in Asia Minor [illegible] peninsula by the barbarous Turk. The consequence of this method were [illegible] With the progress of civilization it has fallen into disuse since more potent methods of nation making have been discovered.

Mr Fiske next described the Roman method of conquest with incorporation, but without representation. In pursuance of this method the Romans at an early stage of their history began to incorporate vanquished peoples into their own politic body and to admit them to a share in their own political privileges. They treated their subjects not as slaves but as citizens. It was not all at once that the Romans rose to the full comprehension and employment of this method. It took them a long time to apply it to the whole of Italy and much longer to extend it to the whole Mediterranean world. But so far as they mastered and applied this method it was the secret of their military power and their mighty conquests. A country as large as Italy, in which all the people were to some extent united in the exercise of certain political rights in common formed a power immeasurably greater than anything ever before seen in the world. The Roman conquests were a consequence of this.

The lecturer went on to enumerate the immense benefits to all future generations by the Roman empire, which transmitted a vast multitude of disconnected peoples, without ideas or traditions in common into the great organized world of modern Europe and America. Next came the consideration of the weak point in the Roman method, its ignorance of representation. The Romans knew nothing of representation; all their governing assemblies were either primary assemblies or assemblies of notables. Hence in governing their provinces by legates and prefects they were unable to preserve local self government. Centralization grew first at the expense of local self government then at the expense of personal liberty until it began to seem as if the government of the European world were in danger of passing into the Oriental method. The reign of Diocletian marked the culmination of this tendency. It was checked by the gradual revolution of Europe by the Teutonic tribes, among whom the instinct of self government was intensely strong. This Teutonic invasion, extending over at least 400 years—say from the fourth century to the tenth—threatened another danger. It threatened society with a relapse into tribal barbarism. This danger was averted by the magnificent work of the Roman church. Mr Fiske went on to describe the characteristics of European life in the middle ages under the double rule of the church and the Holy Roman Empire, culminating in the thirteenth century.

This work of medieval church and empire again tended to diminish local self government everywhere except in England and this introduces us to the third or English method of nation making. This is the method of incorporation with representation. The idea of representation seems to have been familiar to the old Teutonic tribes, but it was only in England that it was successfully put into practice on a national scale. Without representation no permanent government can be made. For it is essential to such a government that it shall achieve national unity on a grand scale without weakening the sense of personal and local independence. To federalism on a grand scale representation is absolutely essential. No other people save the English could ever have founded such a nation as the United States.

The peculiarities of the Teutonic conquest of Britain, and the reasons why representative institutions took such deep root there while they were being nearly destroyed elsewhere, were next unfolded. The effects of the Norman conquest received brief attention, then the Baron's war and the meeting of the first house of commons in 1265. During the thirteenth century the English idea of nation making had acquired such power that the rivalry between it and the Roman idea began to become clearly visible. The medieval empire was breaking up, because of the growth of modern nationalities; a theocratic [illegible] of empire and papacy above and feudal [illegible] kings were becoming able to defy the pope on the one hand while they thrust down their great feudal vassals with the other [illegible] witness for example the career of Philip the Fair.

The lecturer brought out in interesting contrast the facts of the wholesale subjugation of [illegible] nobles and [illegible] to their estates in Spain, France and England during the [illegible] and fifteenth centuries—[illegible] marked by the political [illegible] of the papacy. The end of [illegible] century saw [illegible] everywhere [illegible] in all European [illegible] growing in power at the [illegible] self government and personal [illegible] This period extends [illegible] seventeenth century when [illegible] Louis XIV [illegible] in the early [illegible] of the seventeenth century, despotism [illegible] in England [illegible] the future welfare of the whole human race [illegible] the result of the political [illegible] England. [illegible] and the love of self [illegible] which had been kept alive by [illegible] now came to be rapidly [illegible] by the dominant religious sentiment [illegible] in contrast to Spain where the dominant [illegible] sentiment was allied with despotism.

Mr Fiske then traced the obscure beginnings of Protestantism among the [illegible] and the Puritans [illegible] pass[illegible] to the [illegible] of Southern France, where early in the thirteenth century it was crushed amid the most horrible cruelties known to history. But the seeds of Protestantism [illegible] among the mountains of Savoy [illegible] and [illegible] more than a century later [illegible] began to germinate in England. The [illegible] of Wycliffe's work was then described. In the English reformation two forces were at [illegible] the sentiment of national independence [illegible] III and finally by Henry VIII and [illegible] the religious sentiment [illegible] represented by Wycliffe [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] After that time the [illegible] with the prevailing [illegible] of self government [illegible] in England [illegible] struggle which followed [illegible] were irresistible.

The [illegible] were employed [illegible] with the situation in France where [illegible] the [illegible] Henry IV [illegible] to become a national [illegible] The [illegible] victory for the freedom of [illegible] began to reform continental Europe and after another century [illegible] of modern [illegible] to [illegible] mighty influence of English upon French [illegible] which brought about the [illegible] the consequent political readjustment of [illegible] in Europe. And what is of still greater [illegible] out of this Puritan colony has grown the United States. The Roman empire has been coming to an end, as the world's political center of gravity has been shifted from Rome and Alexandria, on opposite shores of the Mediterranean, to London and New York, on opposite shores of the Atlantic, and as, along with this shifting, the Roman idea of government

West of the North of favored America, La[illegible] [illegible] opinion the [illegible] begins and ends [illegible] where Boston and San Francisco a[illegible] [illegible] is scarce a race under the sun [illegible] [illegible] curse yes. We point to Bunker Hill [illegible] monument with a pride that seems to claim [illegible] a masterpiece of art and a token [illegible] [illegible] the chimney of the navy yar[illegible] [illegible] Bunker Hill [illegible] at Charlestown is as high and as handsome. [illegible] I would not like to pass for one of those pe[illegible] [illegible] of Gilbert's [illegible] rhymes wh[illegible]

A century [illegible] and every country [illegible] one

One of my countrymen a competent cri[illegible] says in a recent book upon Mexico: "The stat[illegible] of Charles IV, the first work in bronze ever c[illegible] in America, now standing in the Paseo of M[illegible] ico City has never been equaled in our o[illegible] country. In the same fine avenue where [illegible] leaves the suburbs of the city stands a yet fi[illegible] monument—to whom think you? No to [illegible] or Cortez, or any other celebrity of lo[illegible] fame but of Columbus. It is a noble work [illegible] representing the great navigator in he[illegible] and simple attitude as becomes his grand ch[illegible] acter and the different faces of the gran[illegible] plinth upon which the statue is poised re[illegible] sent the great events of his life. I have [illegible] seen any monument to Columbus in any of [illegible] great cities. We give succeeding generatio[illegible] proofs of our narrowness and cupidity by ca[illegible] ing in bronze the effigies of money kings a[illegible] ward politicians. We care nothing for su[illegible] matters. I asked an intelligent boy of 18 or [illegible] who for years has traversed Broadway daily [illegible] he could tell me where the old Montgome[illegible] monument was to be seen. He said he gues[illegible] there was no such monument, yet he h[illegible] passed it a thousand times, built into a nic[illegible] in an old church wall on New York's prime [illegible] thoroughfare.

This Paseo de la Reforma is one of the g[illegible] results of Maximilian's reign. It is a grand [illegible] enue running westward from the city to Chap[illegible] tepec the site of the palace of the Montezum[illegible] and of Maximilian. Its length is six miles a[illegible] it is the Champs Elysees of Mexico. At int[illegible] vals of half a mile statues worthy of so beau[illegible] and magnificent a site are placed and the [illegible] from the city gate down the broad drive bord[illegible] ed by fine trees is one of the loveliest in Am[illegible] ica. It far exceeds any in my remembrance [illegible] the United States.

We make cast iron troughs and drinks fr[illegible] them. The Mexicans labor for years upon so[illegible] superb design for a fountain and in the exe[illegible] tion of it and the precious water gains an ad[illegible] charm by the beauty of the fountain [illegible] lakes, jets and rills.

SAN CARLOS

I regret that I was hurried through the [illegible] national gallery. There are treasures th[illegible] from all lands, but the nation's own artists ha[illegible] contributed most to its magnificence. I [illegible] undoubtedly the richest and largest collection [illegible] religious pictures on the continent. T[illegible] Murillos, genuine and characteristic, are [illegible] beside the entrance. Pictures from [illegible] masters' hands are everywhere, but there [illegible] such a wilderness of them and such a mono[illegible] that in a hurried visit one tuits them gladly [illegible] the gallery of Mexican art. One great ha[illegible] given to the landscape painters, another to [illegible] Mexican school of religious painting [illegible] other to portrait and figure, etc.

I have seen some of Moran's, Church's a[illegible] others of our best American artists work a[illegible] think the best examples of the Mexican sch[illegible] their equals in every respect.

A picture in the gallery of historic ar[illegible] and holds the attention. It would be a no[illegible] picture in any collection of the world. I [illegible] resents the good priest Las Casas stand[illegible] the portal of an Aztec temple forbidding [illegible] cruelty of the invading Spaniards. He [illegible] crucifix in his arm and at his feet an A[illegible] woman kneels—a wonderful picture of the de[illegible] ess, weird and surpliant, clasping the knees [illegible] the monk in a dumb prayer for mercy. [illegible] husband [illegible] lies dead at the [illegible] with his hand grasping his poor broken [illegible] and bended [illegible] streaming upon [illegible]

There are also in this gallery some [illegible] traits of Maximilian painted by [illegible] and [illegible] At least they represent [illegible] of noble and estimable presence with the [illegible] of Unser Fritz [illegible] with [illegible] and beard of a Saxon [illegible] clear [illegible] kindly blue eyes that [illegible] have been an [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] A fine [illegible] stands in the museum.

There is no charge for admission to the [illegible] Carlos but one must have [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] kind as to procure two for me.

Is a splendid collection of antiquities [illegible] ties, the [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] try and his [illegible] The natural [illegible] the country [illegible] that of [illegible] embodied [illegible] through Mexico [illegible] an [illegible] temples [illegible] [illegible] absurd [illegible] [illegible] up the trunk of a [illegible] tree [illegible] museum itself [illegible]

The Aztec relics are most interesting. Ab[illegible] all, the renowned pictures made by the [illegible] artists of Montezuma's time are wonder[illegible] They were painted in water colors upon [illegible] like [illegible] and the [illegible] remain as bright and fresh as if done only [illegible] week ago. Once there was a complete his[illegible] of the Aztecs and their wanderings as a [illegible] before they came to the valley of Mexico. [illegible] they were in fact [illegible] of our Nava[illegible] and Apaches but [illegible] Zummarraga [illegible] prelate of Mexico, like Omar at Alexandri[illegible] wrested these hieroglyphic records from [illegible] Aztec priests and had them all at least a[illegible] could discover burned in the square of [illegible] Those that remain in the [illegible] were hidden by priests and people [illegible] suffered death if detected by the priests of [illegible] new religion. Our mild Christianity [illegible] represent Montezuma and [illegible] the [illegible] ple and princes of the ancient Mexi[illegible] an[illegible] wars between them and [illegible] [illegible] the scene [illegible] recognize [illegible] [illegible] fore that they are rude [illegible] enough, better than the [illegible] time in the water color painters of our [illegible] country, but [illegible] day. [illegible] gentle [illegible] artists of that time must have [illegible] at [illegible] depicted the strange beasts centaur [illegible] brought them [illegible] the creature [illegible] see the bloody con[illegible] the captives, the interviews between Cor[illegible] and Montezuma and a hundred historic scen[illegible] They are a pathetic testimony of man's [illegible] mainly to man. The well kept pictures of t[illegible] both. [illegible] history the conquest of Mexi[illegible]

The world is not so very much better [illegible] Within ten years we have seen a noble race [illegible] were friends of the white man and asking o[illegible] for a hundredth part of what was by right [illegible] their own than ours, driven from a high [illegible] lovely valley in our own state hunted to de[illegible] by the armies of the United States that the s[illegible] dispossessors of our own race might fatten ev[illegible] upon the camas of the Wallowa.

We are indignant at Zummarraga's vandalism [illegible] the destruction of the Aztec records yet [illegible] have wiped out the races of the aborigines [illegible] by such cruelty as has exterminated the buffa[illegible] we civilized.

I am loth to quit the pleasant scenes and p[illegible] ple of the City of Mexico. A thousand pleas[illegible]
